Woe Is Me, Alhama
A Coolidge Hope
A Thorough Gang
Old Hearts Dangerous
— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

TEN DAYS in succession the Wall Street gentlemen have bought more than 3,000,000 shares a day. Yesterday they bought 4,000,000 shares. Ten days in succession the poor bears have said: "Woe is me, Alhama."

What goes up must come down, maybe. But when the American eagle starts toward the sun in the morning, it is tiresome waiting for him to come down.

There is revival of hope that President Coolidge will consent to run for a second election this year. Everybody knows he meant it when he said, "I do not choose." Everybody knows he means it when he says now he does not want any of his friends to lift a finger to nominate him.

But the oil scandal makes a difference in the situation, and everyone of intelligence reserves the right to change his mind.

When a Chicago gang turns its attention to a killing, especially if the man is a gang leader, the job is done thoroughly.

Little Italy "Diamond Joe" Esposito is shot down from behind by his own followers. The keeper of the morgue, "just out of curiosity," turned him face downward and counted 58 bullet holes in Esposito's back.

Lord Balfour, seriously ill with heart trouble, was proud of his ability to play a good game of tennis against younger men when past 70. That explains the heart trouble. Men past 50, no matter how young for their last years, have no business playing tennis or any other violent game. Professor Michelson, of the University of California, who, after 60, played many violent sets, please take notice. A man's brain and courage may be young and his heart old.

Secretary Mellon will ignore any action in the Senate asking his resignation. The people will be much obliged for that. The marvel is that Secretary Mellon has worked for the people for nothing so long, reducing their debt by billions in the face of asinine ingratitude.

Tom Wise is dead, shepherd of the Lambs' Club, and a good actor. Years ago William A. Brady asked this writer to see Tom Wise in a play called, "A Gentleman from Mississippi," that Brady was producing.

This writer told Brady: "You have a first-class play and in it there is a young actor playing a minor part, jumping over chairs, etc., that is going to make a success. You ought to make a contract with him." The young man's name was Douglas Fairbanks.

Shanghai says the Japanese government has locked up 1000 Communists in 1000 cells, to teach them that they mustn't criticize the Japanese government. The Japanese are thorough and believe in the right of every man to say exactly what he pleases and what he believes, if he believes what the government believes.

Europe, it is said, plans to keep out American automobiles entirely. So much the worse for Europe. An automobile doubles the value of a man's time.

Ford, General Motors and others will establish complete plants in Europe to take care of that emergency.

Spain goes back to the League of Nations, which is wise. Spain belongs in that league. We have a league of our own here made up of 48 States, with free trade and co-operation.

When Europe gets such a league as we have some of her troubles will end.

TUFTS BANS TWO FRATS IN DANCE

Because of disturbances occurring at house parties at which Tufts College boys and Jackson College girls danced, the lid was clamped down today on two fraternities by the college authorities.

The fraternities are the Tufts branches of the national organizations, Delta Upsilon and Theta Delta Chi. The members are forbidden to hold social events of any kind for the remainder of the college year.

This action was taken by the deans of the Medford institution after consideration of complaints made by two professors, according to college officials.

The house parties in question took place on March 9, on the evening of the Tufts-Brown wrestling matches, the 60 or more members of the two fraternities having invited co-eds and some outside girls to the dances. The Theta Delta Chi dance was a "Poverty Party."

Open houses were the order of the evening, but a strict rule was that men not escorting girls could not attend.

The two fraternity houses are on Sawyer ave. and one professor's house is situated directly between them, while the homes of several other instructors, on Professors' row, are nearby.

What professors complained was not divulged by the college authori-

IN COAL INQUIRY
Bethlehem Steel head tells Senate committee too many men are employed in mining industry.

INDICT FIVE IN LOWELL 'HAY CASE'

The Federal Grand Jury today returned indictments against George E. Crotty, superintendent of State aid in Lowell; Timothy F. Crotty, proprietor of a livery stable in that city; James T. Moran, owner of a Lowell near-beer saloon, and two other men in connection with the shipment of two carloads of Canadian ale last July.

The other two men indicted were Horace Trudel and Thomas W. London. The grand jury investigation has not been completed.

The indictments resulted from the investigation by customs authorities of the shipment of two carloads of alleged hay from Canada to Lowell. The hay, said to conceal many bottles of ale, arrived in the Boston & Maine yards in Lowell last July, and was consigned: "To the City of Lowell."

SCHWAB WORKING FOR LOVE, NOT CASH, HE SAYS

Washington, March 23—Charles M. Schwab, millionaire chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, today entered a denial before the Senate coal committee of union charges that he was engaged in a conspiracy to wreck the United Mine Workers.

Schwab explained his companies believed in taking their employes into "our confidence and understanding." "We want our men to participate in our business just the same as the stockholders," he said.

"You might be surprised," he said, "but in the 40 years I have been in the steel business I have not made a penny out of the Bethlehem Steel. It has been a work of love, and all I have tried to do is to drive a peg to mark progress in human relations."

Questioned by Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, the steel executive said too many men are employed in the mining industry and no palliative remedy can be applied to help that situation. He declared consolidation of selling units might be a good thing to meet the economic difficulties of the industry.

He believed the trouble between labor and capital must "correct itself by natural means." "I mean," said Schwab, "that many miners must find employment in other industries."

Schwab's voice broke as he said he had "never made a cent out of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation."

In the afternoon the committee called John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and R. B. Mellon. They were present in the morning and posed with Schwab for pictures. Schwab said

SON OF RICH NORWOOD MAN LEAPS 18 STORIES

Death by a plunge from the top of a skyscraper into eternity has shattered in tragic manner the romance of George Winslow Plimpton, Tech graduate and millionaire Norwood publisher's son, and a Smith College senior to whom he penned a pathetic note addressed to the most lovely girl in all the world.

The girl is Miss Roberta Seaver, prominent in the younger society set here, and daughter of the late Robert Seaver, of Boston and Belmont.

While Plimpton's crushed body was being prepared for shipment East from San Francisco, Calif., where he leaped to his death, Miss Seaver was reported today to be

HERE'S 'VANISHING' BRIDE

MRS. ELSIE M. BURT
Wife of 13 months of Oscar J. Burt of East Saugus, professional bondsman, who has been missing two weeks, was found working as a maid in a Dorchester family. She says she had a slight "tiff" with her husband, but intends to return later.

'I STILL LOVE OSCAR,' SAYS RUNAWAY BRIDE

Mrs. Elsie M. Burt, missing East Saugus bride, was found today by the Boston Evening American in a Dorchester home where she had been employed for nearly two weeks as a nursemaid for two children.

Private detectives, employed by her husband, Oscar J. Burt, had previously traced her to the home, located at 39 Josephine st.

"I still love Oscar," she declared. "I left home following a trivial quarrel and intend to return. But not right away. I will go back to him when I think I should."

Mrs. Burt left her home two weeks ago today. "I told Oscar I was going but he did not believe me," she said. "He kissed me and went to his work.

"I left home and came to Boston. I tried to stay at a South End hotel but they would not let me in because I was not working and was not a student. I stayed the first night with a woman in Warren ave.

"The next day I went to an employment bureau and secured the job which I have now. I gave my

NYE CALLS 'AL' SMITH 'AID TO SCOUNDRELS IN TEAPOT DOME EXPOSE'

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Answering the letter of Governor Smith of New York which condemned him for his remarks about the Governor in recent debate in the Senate, Chairman Nye of the oil committee today countered that Smith was giving aid and comfort to "every scoundrel whose infamy has been exposed."

This aid, Nye said, was through Smith's "seeking to undermine public confidence in the fairness and impartially of the committee in the midst of this investigation."

Senator Nye, a Republican from North Dakota, disclaimed any attack on the Governor in the debate and wrote that he had "expressly stated that you were not in any way involved in the oil scandals now under investigation by the committee of which I am chairman."

"You need not concern yourself in the least as to the 'public humiliation' which you state your letter will bring down upon me," Nye continued. "I do not propose to be deterred in the performance of my political duty by abuse or criticism of my work from you or from anyone else."

Asserting that the resolution which brought about the oil investigation had been sponsored by Sen-

DORIS SOBS AND FAINTS AS HUSBAND IS HANGED

Montreal, March 23—They told Doris Palmer McDonald that her "sweetheart-husband" had died on the gallows today and Doris fainted at the tragic news.

She is now under the care of a jail physician, her spirit crushed and broken by the sorrowful end of her secret romance.

Doris was spared from the gibbet herself at the last minute and sentenced to life imprisonment at Kingston. She sent a farewell message to George McDonald, the husband, from her cell in the women's jail here.

She penciled the message as she

MRS. THOMAS WHIFFEN SUSPENDS STAGE WORK

A struggle between her great love for her son, Thomas, and the stage, which has been her joy for 67 years, is going on in the heart of Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, oldest actress in the world.

She is lying ill in her rooms at the Hotel Sheraton and has been forced to withdraw from the cast of "Just Fancy," playing at the Wilbur Theater.

Thomas has won a temporary victory in persuading his mother to quit the stage for the remainder of the season, he said today.

"I hope to induce her to quit for good," he added. "But of course I realize that she cannot be forced to do anything. But she loves me so dearly that I am usually able to in-

BROKERS CRACK UNDER WILD ORGY OF TRADING

New York, March 23 (AP)—Speculation in stocks continued on the New York Stock Exchange today and new high price records were created with startling rapidity.

Despite a rather heavy volume of week-end profit-taking, most of the high grade rails and industrials advanced $2 to $5 a share.

Mexican Petroleum, which appears on the tape infrequently of late, but was an outstanding speculative favorite years ago, soared $48 to $300 a share on one transaction of 10 shares.

Atlas Powder shot up $16 a share to a new high record of 101 within a

'GRAND OLD LADY' TO REST

WORLD'S OLDEST ACTRESS ILL

Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, 83, in failing health, is persuaded by her daughter, Peggy, and son, Thomas, to retire, at least for this season, from the cast of "Just Fancy" at the Wilbur Theater, and is going to the family farm in Roanoke, Va., for a good rest.

fluence her in matters for her own good, and I think she has worked too hard and should have a long rest on the farm in Virginia, where she loves the quiet life."

"But I am only going to the farm for a rest," Mrs. Whiffen insisted. "I love my work too much to leave it." She was feeling much improved today.

"If you could have anything in the world that you desire, what would you choose?" she was asked.

"Why, my family and happiness," she answered. And Thomas felt encouraged.

Mrs. Whiffen, famous international actress, was given a birthday party backstage by members of the cast after the performance in Pittsburgh on March 12, her 83rd birthday anniversary.

"Following that she had a hard trip from Pittsburgh to Boston, which weakened her greatly," her daughter, Miss Peggy Whiffen, said. "She caught a severe cold, but would not give up her work, so I sent for my brother to help persuade her that she must take a rest at least."

Mrs. Whiffen's niece, Mrs. Spencer Grant of San Francisco, who arrived from Europe on the Aquitania a few days ago, is spending today with her illustrious aunt.

PROBES 'LEAK' ON $500,000 STREET JOB

Investigation of reports of speculation in real estate in connection with the proposed $500,000 widening of Arlington st., a Mayor Nichols administration measure, was begun today by the Boston finance commission.

With present and former titleholders to the land involved testifying at a private session, the commission made a special effort to ascertain if there was a premature leak of the fact that the administration contemplated this street improvement.

There are 16 parcels of land affected and these have been "gobbled up" by three or four individuals, according to reports that reached the commission, and it is further reported that two of the new titleholders had previously benefited when the city widened Provice st. and improved Park sq.

"Is this widening necessary?" is another question the Finance Commission is seeking to answer by its inquiry, it being declared that the bridge at the Arlington sq. end has been closed for many months without a single complaint.

The part of Arlington st. that will be widened, if Mayor Nichols' plans carry through, lies between Stuart st. and Arlington sq. The mayor's loan order calling for $500,000 for this purpose is now before the City Council.

PRAYER IS FAREWELL MESSAGE

packed up her treasured trinkets preparatory to her transfer to the Kingston penitentiary. With her husband she had been found guilty of slaying a taxi driver and robbing him of $70.

"God bless you and protect you George. I am praying every minute for you," was the midnight message she telegraphed to McDonald, who was then awaiting the gallows at Valleyfield prison.

McDonald read the message and turned to Sheriff Crehin.

"Give her my best regards" was his parting message to the pretty girl-wife who had shared everything but his last stroke of ill-luck. "She's a good kid. I hope she gets out and goes home where she belongs."

"I have never seen a gamer fellow," Sheriff Crehin said some five hours later as he turned back to his office, after posting an official proclamation announcing that the American killer had died on the gibbet.

"He stepped out to his fate like a man. The priest could hardly keep up with him when he went from his cell to mount the platform and die. When he reached the top, he reached for the noose and was ready to put it over his own neck."

While waiting the fateful call to the scaffold, McDonald sat in his lonely cell smoking cigarettes. Occasionally he would rise from his chair to pace back and forth in the narrow confines of his cubicle.

At 3 a. m. when the sheriff and prison officers came to visit him and Arthur Ellis 'measured him for his length of hemp," the condemned man calmly shook hands with the officials to whose care his execution had been entrusted.

News that her love mate had paid the grim penalty which the British crown imposes for murder, reached Doris in her cell in the Fullum st. jail, Montreal, just as she had finished her breakfast.

DORIS SOBS AT NEWS

"I'm sorry. Too bad: he was game—" she said, and then her voice broke and tears welled into her eyes.

There came no word of love or affection from the girl, however, as she sat there sobbing over the tragedy which had crossed her life.

Three weeks ago her love for McDonald died. Her feelings today, when she heard that he had paid his debt to society, were merely the feelings of a partner for a friend in trouble.

"No, I don't love him any more," she said. "But I do admire the wonderful courage he has shown in his last tight corner."

Hangman Ellis' convict assistants were busy this morning dismantling the scaffold that has done its duty by the Canadian law since 1837.

When the 150 parts have been tagged for shipment back to the Montreal court house they will be freed to go their ways, pardoned by a grateful government for their part in the gruesome task that marked the break of dawn.

McDonald was executed at 5:37. Only prison officials and the convict aids were present at the tragic end. Shortly after the dapper gunman had forfeited his life on the scaffold a black flag was raised above the prison walls.

McDonald had asked to see his wife just once more before he walked to his death, but this request was denied him. He parted with his mother and father early last night and then awaited the fatal hour alone.

With the execution of her husband over, authorities today were preparing to receive Doris at the federal prison in Kingston, where she will spend the rest of her life as an accomplice in the crime for which McDonald died.

Find Pencils and Begin Hunt for S4 Messages

Discovery of nearly a score of pencils buried in the mud that covers the decks of the S4 today strengthened the belief that many more farewell messages from members of her heroic crew and perhaps a complete "log" of their last hours will be found.

Members of the naval board of investigation found the pencils today while continuing their search of the craft in dry dock at the Navy Yard.

They found also a strange omen—a photograph of the S51 taken after she was lifted from the sea bottom off Block Island Sound, a great hole in her side. The picture is believed to have been part of a diary or photo album kept by a member of the S4's crew. It was thought possible even that the picture was studied by the S4's men as they waited for death to claim them while futile rescue attempts were being made.

The navy officially has announced the finding of messages from two of the S4's crew, and the belief is growing that somewhere aboard her a last farewell message from Lieut. Graham N. Fitch, ranking officer of the torpedo room and the man who tapped the messages, will be eventually brought to light.

Following a report from Ridgefield Park, N. J., that Congressman Randolph Perkins intended to determine why the body of Frank Snizek was shipped to his home there without a naval escort, Rear Admiral Philip Andrews explained that the law prevented such an escort.

"We would gladly, if we could, send an escort with the body of every man who died on the S4, but the law forbids the expenditure of public money for escort," he said

Rear Admiral Andrews denied any notes other than the two made public have been found. "All notes will be given out as soon as they are found," he said.

One of the divers commended by Secretary Wilbur for his work during salvage operations is Joseph H. Stanley of 105 Orchard st., Somerville. Stanley volunteered to return to the navy when he learned of the S4 sinking and his services were accepted. His father was a navy diver in the service for 30 years.

Mother of Others Kneels in Prayer for Boys of S4

A gray-haired woman, dressed in black, knelt by the Navy Yard dry dock where the S4 rests today and murmured a prayer. When she had finished one seaman stepped to her side and lifted her to her feet.

"May I help you in any way?" he asked.

"No dear," she answered, smiling. "I'm just a mother with sons of my own. I came here from Attleboro to say a prayer for those poor boys."

None inquired her identity and she left the yard soon after the incident.

he wanted to "tell the committee nobody had done so much for honesty in American industry as Rockefeller and his father."

Turning to the Jacksonville wage agreement, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, interrogated the steel magnate on the abrogation of the pact by the Bethlehem Mines Corporation which Schwab admitted was connected with his organization.

"I could give you no intelligent answer about details concerning the Jacksonville agreement," he declared.

"My course has been to follow the highest moral and business integrity that is possible, and I cannot believe our people violated this agreement." He added he was now too old to be "competent or feel called upon to be actively engaged in business."

"When I came down here," said Schwab, "I was afraid of you."

As the crowded committee room broke into laughter, the steel magnate went on: "I was told you were going to give me the devil. But now, looking into your faces, I am not afraid at all."

Senator Wheeler, to whom he spoke, smiled broadly and remarked, "You must have been talking with the operators."

"We're seeking here a remedy," broke in Chairman Watson, "if we can, to remedy a manifest evil in the coal industry. Do you think the Sherman anti-trust law should be repealed to enable the coal operators to fix prices, to help the miners and to guarantee a fair profit to the investor?"

"I do not," said the steel magnate. "That remedy would be palliative and would not alleviate the present serious condition."

Schwab said he thought John L. Lewis had made a mistake in attempting to keep wages at a high level, thus making the union operators compete with mines elsewhere paying lower wages.

Lewis obtained the floor and contended such a reduction would mean a further lowering of non-union wages in the "southern fields." He said the Ohio operators had a "continuously competitive wage scale" which meant the ultimate lowering of wages to a low of $1 a day if the union let wages drop.

Rockefeller, a stockholder in the Consolidation Coal Co., denied any direct knowledge of the Baltimore wage agreement which the United Mine Workers' charged was violated by the company.

Accuse Boy of Four Charlestown Holdups

John Sokoloski, 21-year-old Charlestown youth, awaiting trial for robbery while armed in Somerville, was responsible for four recent holdups in Charlestown, three in one night, according to Special Officer William J. Bonner of the Charlestown station.

According to Bonner, the young man has been identified by Walter Gardner, held up in the filling station at 120 Alford st., Charlestown, the night of March 7 and robbed of $42.50. The police say he is also one of two men who held up Louis Linnemeyer in a gas station at 373 Rutherford ave., Charlestown, the same night and after locking him in a closet made off with $70.

On the same night he is accused of visiting the periodical store of Lewis Smith at 47 Chelsea st., Charlestown, and obtaining $65 at gun point. Also the holdup of Sydney Brown in his shoe store at 259 Main st., Charlestown, a few nights later, when he was robbed of $200, is laid to Sokoloski.

SCHOOL ATHLETICS HIT AS AID TO FAVORED FEW

2 BIG CAMERAS BEING MADE FOR HIS TRIP

New York, March 23—Photography will be relied upon to a large extent to help him find the South Pole, objective of his Antarctic expedition by airplane, Commander Richard E. Byrd said today.

Photographs of the exact South Pole itself will be made, Byrd declared. One specially-built camera will picture the path he travels while the plane is at an altitude of 5000 feet.

The explorer said laboratories of two large companies are at work on the photographic problem of the expedition. In addition to making a camera record of every mile of the flight by means of an automatic camera to be fastened to the bottom of the plane, Commander Byrd said he also expected to use photography to help him locate the pole.

A special automatic camera with which he said he will take "shots" of the sun as he flies toward the pole is being constructed.

Byrd, commenting on disasters met in attempts to fly the Atlantic, said long non-stop flights are, in his opinion, "foolhardy and criminal." He deplored the "throwing away of good men repeating flights that already have been achieved."

He endorsed efforts of the National Aeronautical Association to promote a non-stop land flight of 5000 to 6000 miles from New York to the Pacific coast and return.

"Such a flight would divert public attention and the minds of fliers from the long sea hop," Commander Byrd declared.

Transatlantic flights that do not succeed not only cause a loss of life, he pointed out, but shakes public confidence in aviation.

MEDFORD MAN SAYS SPORT IS 'BUSINESS'

Present methods of physical education in high schools were denounced today by George S. Miller, chairman of the Medford school committee, at a conference of school committeemen and school superintendents in Gardner Auditorium in the State House.

Miller said that school athletics today is a great business.

"Instead of fulfilling its purpose of providing physical education for the many," he said, "it has provided instead for the training of a few men, the purpose being a stupendous athletic spectacle.

"We have gone too far. We don't want to train the few who need it least, and neglect the others. We ought to emphasize physical education for the many. The objective is not a successful team."

He characterized as an "administrative monster," the body that controls athletics in schools.

"If the purpose of athletics is to provide physical education for pupils, there is no logic in taxing the people thousands of dollars to pay for seats and not charge admission. Either no seats or a charge should be made. There is going to be a reaction against money raised by taxation to provide spectators with free seats."

Dr. Jeremiah E. Burke, superintendent of Boston schools, said graduates of public high schools were as well, if not better, prepared to enter college than are graduates of private preparatory schools. He said the annual cost per pupil in Boston high schools is $143, as against from $400 to $600 in private schools.

TRAPPED BY 'DETECTIVE'

—Boston Evening American Staff Photo

Mrs. Frances A. Lewis, Beacon st. widow, charges Frank G. Ferris, 21, found a pretext for getting her into a hotel room, where a "detective" made her give up $300 and $3000 in jewelry. She says after getting a marriage license Ferris failed to marry her. She appeared in court against him today, and he was held in $2200 on larceny and conspiracy charges for trial March 30.

WIDOW CHARGES YOUTH PLOTTED TO ROB HER

Increase of $1000 was made today in bail fixed for Frank G. Ferris, 21, who was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Frances A. Lewis, Beacon st. widow, who charges he plotted to get her jewelry and also refused to marry her after wedding arrangements had been made.

Ferris, previously charged with larceny, faces an additional charge of conspiracy as a result of a brief session in Municipal Court today when Chief Justice Bolster raised the bail amount from $1200 to $2200.

The debonair youth was placed in the prisoners' dock when he could not put up this amount right away.

Mrs. Lewis, who is the mother of a 12-year-old girl, was in court, but a full hearing on the unusual case was postponed until March 30.

She charges he induced her to go to a hotel, ostensibly to visit a friend, and that on arrival she found herself in a room alone with him. Then a "detective" entered and refused to leave until she handed over $300 in cash and jewelry valued at $3000.

She also declared Ferris then accompanied her to Marblehead where a marriage license and waiver of the five-day law was obtained, but there the marital plans ended. Ferris' arrest followed after Inspectors Liese and LeBlanc investigated.

'LULU BELLE' NO PLAY FOR HUB, SAYS MAYOR

"Lulu Belle," David Belasco's drama set against the colored background of Manhattan's "roaring fifties," will be barred from Boston, according to an unofficial decision given at City Hall today.

The play, starring Leonore Ulric, was booked to make its Boston premiere at a local theater in two weeks, but if it opens—and under the law one performance may be presented—it will be closed, Mayor Nichols has decided.

The mayor is unalterably opposed to presentation of the play here and it is also frowned upon by City Censor John M. Casey. Counsel for Belasco has not yet sounded official feeling here, but Mayor Nichols is expected to stand firm on his decision that "Lulu Belle" is no play for Boston.

TRAP BOY BURGLAR BY AUTOMATIC ALARM

Summoned by an automatic burglar alarm Patrolmen Sullivan and Lawless of the East Boston division today captured a 17-year-old boy, who gave his name as Henry Cavahere, in the grocery store of Mario Cavagnaro, Breed st. Although the officers heard the alarm, the boy was entirely unaware of it, and, according to the police, was caught red-handed.

SHADOW FALLS ON LEONORE ULRIC

David Belasco's drama with "colored" background, booked to appear in Boston in two weeks, with Leonore Ulric as the star, is no play for this city, Mayor Nichols has decided.

Congress Group Goes A-Flying With Lindy

BUSY DAY FOR THE WORLD'S CHAMPION

Col. Lindbergh invited senators and representatives to take a trip in the air with him, and is devoting several days of his time in Washington taking up congressional parties for an air view of the capital. Here is one of the groups at Bolling Field, including congressmen, their wives, sons and daughters, ready for a ride. Representative F. H. Foss and daughter of Massachusetts are two of the members of this party.

Seeks Bay State Man Who Kept Him From Suicide

New York, March 23 (AP)—Prof. Archibald W. Watson of Adelaide College, Australia, arrived here today on the liner Reliance to search for Joseph Warren, once of Springfield, Mass., who, he said, had kept him from suicide in student days at the University of Bonn, Germany.

The professor has just completed a tour of the West Indies in connection with his study of Spanish history. He described an adventurous and unorthodox boyhood which preceded his entry to the German university about 40 years ago. There his despair at his backwardness in studies led him to the verge of suicide until Warren took him in hand and became his mentor.

Widow Leaves Most of $200,000 to Charity

The will of Mrs. Mary A. Butler, widow of the Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, former Quincy and Beverly Unitarian pastor, filed in Norfolk Probate Court today, disclosed that she was possessed of an estate of between $200,000 and $250,000.

The will was drawn on July 2, 1924. Roland W. Boyden, Boston and Beverly lawyer, is named executor and also is appointed trustee of two $7000 trust funds. To the lawyer, Mrs. Butler left her household effects.

For Harriet E. Johnson of Boston and Marion Jackson of Quincy, trust funds of $7000 are provided, they to receive an annual income of $250.

Other bequests include $85,000 to the Meadeville Theological School; $3300 to the First Parish Church of Beverly; $10,000 to the ministerial fund of that church; $5000 to the Beverly Hospital; $10,000 to the Pond Home for Aged People of Norfolk County; $1000 each to the Thomas Crane Public Library of Quincy and the First Congregational-Unitarian Society of Quincy—and the rest and residue to the Meadeville Theological School.

FIND MAIL BAGS OF SALISBURY TRAIN HOLDUP

Search of nearly two years for the two Salisbury mail train pouches which contained $65,000 stolen in the train robbery in July, 1926, ended today when Maynard F. Woodbury, Essex County surveyor, stumbled over them back of a stone wall in South Topsfield.

By a humorous coincidence, as Woodbury was in the process of turning his finds over to postal authorities, word was received in Boston that the three mail robbers who fled with the pouches, are now engaged in making mail pouches and sacks at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

These three are John and Michael Andrews, father and son, of Nashua, N. H., and John Boyd of Philadelphia. They are serving sentences of 25 years each. When Boyd's sentence is served, however, he must begin a life sentence in Pennsylvania for murder of his wife.

Today Surveyor Woodbury was in the field with his instruments when he found them. One was the pouch that actually contained the money. The other was the pouch that held the first. Both pouches were empty when found, but were unlocked.

grief-stricken at her home in Belmont.

The youth had dived from the top of an 18-story office structure in the San Francisco business district, according to a news dispatch. Police of the California city declared the evidence indicated the youth was a suicide.

Plimpton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Plimpton of Norwood, became engaged to Miss Seaver last October 15. The announcement was made at a formal party by the mother of the girl. The youth was then a graduate student at Technology.

Last summer his health had been poor and he was in a sanitarium. But apparently he had recovered and had resumed his studies.

Then late in the fall his friends were startled to learn that he had fallen or leaped from the roof of a Back Bay architectural school, while his parents were in the school office waiting for him to appear.

Taken to City Hospital, the youth was later removed to his home and treated by the family physician at Norwood.

few minutes. Adams Express jumped $13 a share.

Brokers on the floor of the exchange, which recently has been referred to as the "maelstrom of millions," were beginning to crack under the strain of 10 successive 3,000,000 share days.

A few already have been forced to take a rest, but there is little relief in sight for most of them as the stock exchange rules prevent the engagement of substitutes or assistants.

Nerves of over-worked clerks and bookkeepers in the leading brokerage houses also have been worn to a frazzle by the long hours and irregular meals.

So great has been the volume of trading that many houses have been compelled to restrict, or abandon altogether, the practice of supplying "bid and asked" quotations to their customers. As a result, many orders are now given "at the market," but sometimes nearly an hour elapses before a report can be given.

SENATOR FERRIS OF MICHIGAN DEAD AT 75

Washington, March 23 (INS)—Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris (D.) of Michigan died here this morning after a short illness from bronchial pneumonia.

Death came at 6:15 o'clock this morning in the hotel where he made his home in the capital. Members of his family, summoned a week ago when the doctors virtually gave up hope of saving his life, were at the bedside. The body will be taken to his Michigan home, at Big Rapids, for burial.

SEE FONCK, ROCKEFELLER, DISREGARD $12,000,000

Havre, France, March 23 (AP)—Captain Rene Fonck, noted French flier, and Percy Rockefeller, American financier, monopolized attention on the arrival of the Ile de France today while 211 little kegs containing $12,000,000 in gold were flung down the gangway, hardly noticed by the crowd.

Take 2 Years to Find Crime Is Result of Many Factors

Albany, March 23 (INS)—After devoting two years to the study of criminals, the Baumes crime commission, in a report made public today, declared there is "no unit cause of crime."

"Many factors contribute to the making of any criminal career, therefore, no simple remedies can be recommended for the prevention and cure of crime," the report said.

"Whether this delinquent tendency is because of biological, hereditary or environment causes has been fruitlessly discussed. Of more practical importance is the question of how to correct these tendencies."

ties, but the substance of their complaints was that they were greatly disturbed during the night, being awakened and kept awake by noise coming from the scene of festivities.

It was hinted that in their investigation the deans learned other facts relating to the cause of the disturbance, but this the fraternity members denied and gave their own explanation of the trouble.

The students said that outsiders tried to gain admittance to one of the houses and upon being ordered away started trouble which it took force to quell.

They declared that these outsiders had liquor and were the boisterous ones.

NYE BLASTS SMITH AS "OIL CROOKS' AID"

ate Republican independents, the Senator La Follette of Wisconsin and Senator Norris of Nebraska.

Nye recalled that in the 1924 campaign Governor Smith supported "John W. Davis of the house of Morgan, after blocking the nomination of Senator Walsh as a compromise candidate at the convention of your party in New York city."

SINCLAIR CONTRIBUTION.

"Under these circumstances," he said, "it ill becomes you to accuse me of partisan motives or conduct in the performance of my duties as an official, in a letter which, by the way, represents the first public condemnation, by yourself, of the oil scandals which has come to my notice.

"Might it be that your reticence to speak out against these scandals is attributable to the fact that Harry F. Sinclair was a member of your official family and had, as newspapers now report, contributed in 1918, when you were a successful candidate for governor, to a Democratic committee in New York? This thought is merely suggested by your letter.

"I only regret that you have seen fit to give aid and comfort to every scoundrel whose infamy has been exposed, by seeking to undermine public confidence in the fairness and impartiality of the committee in the midst of its investigation.

"This is the status you now occupy, in my humble judgment, as the result of your unwarranted letter with whatever 'public humiliation' it brings to yourself."

In the first part of his letter Sen. Nye took up in detail the debate leading up to the questioning of him by Sen. Robinson, Republican, Indiana. He said the Indiana Senator belonged to a faction of the Republican party "with which I have never been charged, until now and by you, with identifying myself."

PROFESSES GOOD FAITH.

In reply to the suggestion of Robinson that Smith be called before the oil committee to tell of his relations with Sinclair as a member of the New York racing commission, Nye recalled that he replied that Robinson had made "an unreasonable request."

"This statement," he continued, "I made in good faith without mental reservation and without any desire or possible motive to attack, embarras or reflect upon you in any way.

"So, these are the facts upon which you base an abusive letter freely charging me with 'infamous insinuations,' 'demagogic slander,' and 'reckless' and 'outrageous conduct.'

"While I resent and repel these unwarranted misstatements, I do not propose to engage with you in any controversy on that level.

"You gratuitously charged me, however, with being a party to a plot to enable the Republican party to 'escape in some measure the penalty for the disgraceful record of the party in connection with these scandals.'

"In other words, you impeach me as the chairman of the committee in charge of the investigation as being engaged in an effort to protect culprits whose exposure by the committee would injure the Republican party. There is just a bit of humor in your charge.

"Surely you cannot be ignorant of the fact that upon my own initiative and responsibility, and without the suggestion of any other member of the committee, Republican or Democrat, I appointed an investigator, on the basis of information privately furnished to me, who traced the bonds of the Continental Trading Company, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, directly to the coffers of the Republican national committee through the banks of New York City.

"You cannot be ignorant of the fact that following my public announcement of this fact on February 11, I recalled Will Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, to the witness stand for further examination. You can not be ignorant of the fact that the resolution under which the committee is now acting was drafted and introduced by Senator Norris, not a Democrat, but a Republican, and leader of the progressive group with which I have been identified from the day I entered the Senate.

"YOU AIDED DAVIS."

"You cannot be ignorant of the fact that the resolution of April 29, 1922, which made possible all the revelations now before the public, was introduced by the late Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, a progressive Republican, whom I supported for President in 1924 while you were supporting John W. Davis of the house of Morgan after your supporters had effectually blocked the nomination in the convention of Senator Walsh of Montana as a compromise candidate, according to my understanding of the analysis of the vote in the convention made by Mr. Callahan of St. Louis, who was a delegate to the convention.

"I shall go on determined to do my duty as I see it in the hope that I may contribute something to that cause which would end the rightful and destructive influence of money, won from unhealthy sources, and used in election campaigns, and in this work will shield none who are guilty, be they Republicans, Democrats or any other shade of political faith."

Flays Governor

ANSWERS "ATTACK" U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican, North Dakota, bitterly assailed Governor "Al" Smith today for "giving comfort to every scoundrel the oil inquiry has uncovered." His attack was in reply to a letter from the New York Governor.

Smith Won't Comment on Senator Nye's Attack—Yet

Albany, March 23 (INS)—Governor Smith today refused to comment on the letter written him by U. S. Senator Nye in connection with the oil scandal.

"I will not have any comment to make until I receive the letter," Governor Smith said when informed of the contents of the Nye letter.

BRAZIL AGREES TO CO-OPERATE WITH LEAGUE

Geneva, March 23 (AP)—Brazil today informed the League of Nations that despite its withdrawal it would continue to co-operate in the work of the League. The Brazilian reply was in response to the request of the League Council that Brazil and Spain reconsider their decisions to withdraw. Spain yesterday announced her return.

It was learned in Rio Janeiro that the Brazilian foreign office was opposed to that country's return to the League. The foreign office felt that by being absent from the League session Brazil would be able to contribute more effectively to the League's work. It was argued that Brazil now is not hampered by obligations which might accompany League membership and which might affect her sentiments of concord toward all nations.

Brazil resigned in June, 1926, after failing to get a permanent seat on the League Council. Resignations become effective two years after they are filed.

Soviet Disarmament Plan Given Death Blow

Geneva, March 23 (AP)—The Soviet project for complete disarmament was given its death blow by the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today. Notice of the project's demise was postponed, however, until it was found whether the committee's own draft on disarmament would go to a second reading this session.

A resolution closing the debate on disarmament noted that practically all the members find the Soviet text, while in harmony with the ideals of mankind, is incapable of being carried out under existing world conditions. It suggested that the Soviet method might be studied further by the various governments, but made no provision for its further study by the commission.

The resolution will be discussed this evening.

PRISONERS FREED WHEN THEIR "BOARD" ISN'T PAID

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—Board and room of reasonably good quality is obtainable here for $3.50 a week. It's in a jail. The revelation came when some folks imprisoned for failure to pay judgments were freed because their creditors had not paid for the debtors' maintenance, in person, as required by law.

Human Life Returns to 'Reservoir' Says Sir Oliver Lodge

London, March 23 (AP)—Sir Oliver Lodge, British scientist, told a London audience his view of existence.

Human beings, he said, came from some vast reservoir of life, where they had no identity. They were given an earthly body so that they could develop individuality, and he said they were reabsorbed into the reservoir, taking with them their personalities and memories.

WELL-KNOWN MEN NAMED IN TRIAL OF RUM CASE

Springfield, March 23 (AP)—A $900 fine and a six months' jail sentence were imposed today in District Court on "Jack" McQuade, convicted of keeping and selling liquor and maintaining a liquor nuisance. He appealed. "Bookings" made by police vice squad watchers of the McQuade place were read and the names of many well known persons and characters were given as frequenters of the resort.

BROCKTON MAN ENDS LIFE AS WIFE LOOKS ON

Brockton, March 23—Albert S. Snow, 49, former councilman who lived at 52 North Warren ave., committed suicide today by drinking poison, while his wife, Cordia, ignorant of what he was doing, looked on.

"I've finished myself this time. Goodby," said Snow, as he got back into bed, where his wife was lying, and went into convulsions. He died on the way to the hospital.

Snow, a candy salesman, well known and popular in Brockton, had been despondent for some time past, his wife told the police. She said she awoke this morning and saw her husband in the bathroom drinking from a glass. Mrs. Snow said she asked what he was drinking and he replied: "Milk."

After draining the glass Snow returned to bed and in response to a second question announced that he had finished himself.

U. S. MARINES IN NEW NICARAGUA SKIRMISH

Managua, Nicaragua, March 23 (AP)—A clash between an American Marine patrol and a small band of rebels indicated today that aerial bombardment of the region near Murra had failed to dislodge the Sandino forces. Three rebels were slain and two wounded in the encounter which took place at Esperanza, near Murra, in northeastern Neuva Segovia. There were no Marine casualties. The region around Murra was bombed and raked with machine gun fire from Marine planes.

PENNIMAN CASE HAS CAMBRIDGE STIRRED UP

With Cambridge deeply stirred today by the word that one of its most widely-known men, Election Commissioner Harry A. Penniman, had been indicted for forgery, Dist.-Atty. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex County officially announced he would bring Penniman to trial if a new indictment were returned.

After the district attorney had been told that the old charge had been nol-prossed, he personally delved into the records today.

He announced then that he would present the evidence to the April grand jury.

"If an indictment be returned, I shall see to it that Penniman is tried," declared Bushnell.

Penniman, who is prominent in Cambridge politics, being a G. O. P. leader, was accused of forging his wife's name to a deed for Florida land.

He was never arraigned in open court and the nol pros, so far as could be learned, was not read in court. The greatest secrecy surrounded the whole affair and the papers on the case were filed away in the office of the clerk of courts.

Assistant District Attorney Frederic A. Crafts procured the original indictment early in December, the records show, and it was he who signed the nol pros, which was not filed until February 17. The records also show that a capias for Penniman's arrest was issued December 8, but he was not arrested until February 3.

Penniman, the papers show, has lived in the same house with his wife, Mrs. Marie A. Penniman, for many years, although they have been estranged for a long period.

In the indictment he was charged with forging her name to a deed to a certain parcel of land in Florida, a deed given by him to Ida L. Sturm.

The records also show that he was bailed by Charles J. Wood, another prominent Republican, who is associated with Penniman as a member of the election commission. They are the two designated Republicans which the law requires shall comprise the election commission, together with two declared Democrats.

The records do not show that he was ever arraigned in court or that the matter was presented in any form in open court.

The matter has come to light now as the result of complaint to District Attorney Bushnell by Attorney William F. Connor, who is counsel for Mrs. Penniman.

In the nol pros Assistant District Attorney Crafts said:

Penniman placed his wife's name on the deed, because she refused to because there was domestic trouble, and it appeared she was trying to hold a club over him, that he stood ready to turn over a third of the money from the sale for a confirmatory deed. As intention to injure and defraud was an essential to the crime charged he declined to prosecute.

POSTOFFICE THIEVES FLEE HAIL OF BULLETS

Providence, March 23 (AP)—Shortly after the town sergeant had tried the doors at 2:15 this morning and found everything secure, the postoffice at North Smithfield was broken into. A preliminary investigation failed to show anything missing, although letters were scattered over the floor.

Town Sergt. Allaire, summoned by telephone, arrived in time to see two men running from the building, a combined store and postoffice. He fired a tthe fugitives and pursued them, but they escaped.

39 MORE STRIKING MINERS ARE JAILED

Pittsburgh, March 23 (INS)—Thirty-nine striking miners were arrested for alleged illegal picketing at Traveskyn today and brought by state troopers to the county jail here in default of $500 each.

With 27 other miners arrested at Traveskyn yesterday, they were placed in cells near Patrick T. Fagan, president of district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, who refused bail and remained in jail all night to await a hearing on charges of inciting to riot and disorderly conduct.

DOLORES FARRIS TO CHRISTEN HUB BOAT

Dolores Farris, one of the principals in "Good News" at the Majestic Theater, will christen a new type of pleasure craft at T Wharf tomorrow morning. As sponsor for the new boat, which is to be named The Boston Girl, Miss Farris has invited the members of the "Good News" company to see her break a bottle of champagne over the bow.

The new boat is one of a series of an entirely new type of pleasure craft, designed and built here. The American Steel Boat Company of Boston built the boat.

Tall Buildings Protect Smaller Blocks, Expert Says

New York, March 23—F. W. Peek, Jr., consulting engineer of the General Electric Co., is authority for the statement that tall buildings protect their humbler neighbors from lightning within a radius of from two to four times the height of the building. His statement was given at the meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Tests with artificial lightning on small models in the Pittsfield, Mass., laboratory have shown this constantly protected area, he explained. If a building does not extend above an imaginary line drawn from the top of the high building to the edge of the protected area, it would not be struck.

JUDGE STONE SPEAKS AT PROVIDENCE TODAY

Judge Arthur P. Stone of the Cambridge district court, will speak this afternoon at an all-New England conference of mental hygienists at the Plantations Club in Providence. His subject will be "Understanding the Juvenile Delinquent." This is the second annual conference under the joint direction of the Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts Societies for Mental Hygiene.

HOUSE KILLS SUNDAY BREAD SALE BILL

The House today sustained the adverse report of a committee on the Twohig bill, which would have permitted the sale of bread, wood and coal on Sundays.

In moving substitution of his measure for the unfavorable report, Twohig offered to strike out the coal and wood provisions. He declared that the law had not been enforced on the Sunday sale of bread until the Boston police started a drive and that legalization of such sales was imperative.

Representative Elmer Spear of Everett raised a point of order. He claimed that a bill seeking a similar change in the law had previously been rejected by the House. The point was sustained by Speaker John C. Hull and the adverse report was then accepted.

QUIT HUNT FOR HINCHLIFFE IN MAINE

Greenville, Me., March 23 (INS)—Search of the Maine woods in the Moosehead Lake region by air for trace of the Hinchliffe transatlantic airplane Endeavor was definitely over at 10:50 a. m. today, when a Canadian government airplane which had been here two days started on the return trip to Ottawa.

Capt. Charles Bath and Sergt. Arthur Anderson battled a strong headwind over the snow-clad mountains, lakes and rivers of the vast wilderness on the first leg of their hop that took them to Megantic, Quebec, to refuel.

En route to the Canadian border a sharp lookout was kept for wreckage of a golden-winged plane.

TRUTH:

"Happy" Holmes Says:

Hello, folks, here I am, a new fellow just signed up with "Morgan's" to try to keep the sun shining for you on rainy days.

Our adjective discoverer got lost in the dictionary a couple of days ago looking up some new, snappy phrases and the big boss told me I'd have to do this advertisement.

* * *

"I'm no advertising man," says I. "Fine," replies the boss. "That's a relief anyway."

"How'll I get up the ad then," I ask.

"Just tell them the TRUTH," snaps the chief—"that's all we ever do here."

"Just naked truth or dolled up?" I ventures.

"I said, the truth," says the boss.

* * *

Well, like most fellows writing Furniture ads in Boston I got out the old scrap book to see how Morgan advertised. Then I tried to copy it.

"Huh," anybody can do that, I suddenly thought. "I've got to be original—why not tell these people just how the items look to me."

* * *

So I went out in the store and got together the ideas you see in this ad. I'm not a flowery fellow so you won't find any dollar and a half words kicking around—but for real values—well they are surely to be found at Morgan's.

* * *

Come on down and look over these items. I couldn't describe them as pretty as the "adjective boys," but I did just what the boss said to—I told the TRUTH.

125 VERY GOOD
LIVING ROOM SUITES
3 Pieces—Upholstered in Mohair

Some 3-piece overstuffed suites sold these days are good—others better—and some from $800 up might be called best. These 125 special suites we are offering this week are the better kind. Not just good—and are not the $800 sort. Covered all over, including backs and sides, with "Persian mohair," that's the manufacturer's specification. Frankly, we believe they contain a small amount of worsted to add durability. Reversible cushions, hardwood reinforced frames and Nachmann springs. Suites made to wear.

120 WELL STYLED
DINING ROOM SUITES
10 Pieces—Made to Wear!

Not solid walnut, but walnut veneer and American gumwood as, we believe, are all other sets offered at prices up to about $800. I honestly believe solid walnut suites made and finished like these we are offering would probably be worth at least $800 or $1000. These suites look as well, and will wear a lifetime, which is long enough. 10 pieces are Table, Buffet, China Cabinet, Server, 1 Host Chair and 5 Guest Chairs.

BRIDE OF 120 IS SURE LOVE DOES NOT GROW OLD

Phoenix, Ariz., March 23 (INS)—One never grows too old for love and marriage, Senora Francisca Grijalva Valverde, who has just become the bride of David Valverde at the age of 120, opined today as she sat beside her 78-year-old husband in their little home near here, surrounded by some of their progeny.

Although the couple has just married, they have considered themselves man and wife since they came up from their Old Mexico home 30 years ago.

Blind, and so weak from the weight of her years as to be able to do little more than move feebly about the one room in which she spends most of her time, Senora Valverde, nevertheless, professes to have some distinct recollections of the distant past.

She calls the pomp and ceremony that marked the days of Maxmillian on the throne of her country, she says, and the fate of that monarch; the days when the "gringos" invaded Mexico; the rise of Dias to power—but she can't be sure, she admits.

"I am old, very old, and my memory is poor. Perhaps I have forgotten, and my memories are imagination," she says of those stirring events, but on the question of her age she is very positive.

"I was 90 years old when I came here from my home in Sonora, Mexico, and I have lived here for more than 25 years," she states positively.

"I have always kept track of my age and marked off a year each Christmas since my folks told me how old I was, so I know I am 120 years old.

"I can't tell you much about the past. I don't try to remember now. The days pass and I remember today and forget yesterday.

"I have lived long, and now I am old and sick and tired. The priest told me we ought to be married by him before I died and I know I can't live much longer, so we were married. I am ready to die when my time comes, for I am old, very old—"

And Arizona's only 120-year-old bride closed the interview by falling asleep in her chair.

ALL-MEAT DIET HARMFUL TO HEART, SAYS DOCTOR

New York, March 23 (AP)—Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner of the city of New York, takes issue with those who hold that an all-meat diet is not harmful to the constitution.

Commenting on the experiment of Dr. Vilhjalmar Stefansson and Karsten Anderson, Arctic explorers, Dr. Harris said an all-meat diet was likely to cause an enlarged heart and other serious physical disorders. He added that a variegated diet was needed. Doctors who examined the two men Wednesday reported they found no apparent defects from the restricted diet.

HUB COLDER TONIGHT, BUT WEEK-END WILL BE BALMY

An unofficial long-range forecast indicates sunny skies and comfortable temperatures for the first week-end of spring. Before the promised elevation of the mercury is felt here, however, there will be a slight drop in temperatures tonight as a cold area moves out to sea north of New England.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly colder tonight; rising temperature Saturday; diminishing northwest winds, becoming southerly Saturday.

Collie Visits Hospital Daily for a Wave

Westfield, March 23—A two-year-old collie, faithful as ever a dog is, has become the most punctual visitor to Noble Hospital, and he makes a visit each day at the same hour to see his mistress and receive a wave of her hand.

The mistress is Mrs. Edgar Fielding of Noble ave., member of the Playgrounds Commission, who is recuperating from a fall downstairs in her home.

"Gyp," the collie, trailed the family to the hospital one night and saw his mistress in the lighted sun room. Since then he has trotted over to the hospital at the same hour every morning, has received a wave of her hand and then, satisfied, wagged his tail and trotted home again.

ARKANSAS DELEGATION 90 PER CENT FOR SMITH

Little Rock, Ark., March 23 (AP)—The Arkansas Gazette says today that "90 per cent" of the Arkansas delegation to the national Democratic convention will favor nomination of Governor Smith of New York for the presidency.

The newspaper says further that the meeting of the State Democratic central committee was an "overwhelming" victory for Smith. The victor, was apparent regardless of the fact that "a determined fight was made by the W. C. T. U. and representatives of church organizations to pledge the committee to a dry candidate."

Says Son Seeks Money She Made Doing Washing

Brockton, March 23—Mrs. Annie M. Frisby, 66-year-old Whitman woman, in Superior Court told how the son she had fed, clothed and housed from childhood was attempting to get part of the money she had earned by taking in washing, keeping boarders and nursing.

She testified in a master's hearing on the bill in equity brought by Harold N. Frisby of Whitman, asking the establishment of a trust and that an accounting be made in connection with real estate holdings of his mother on Center st., Whitman, valued at $10,000.

Mrs. Frisby testified that her husband left her 20 years ago, and she was forced to support her son and herself. The son said that since he started to work he had turned all his money into the home, with the understanding their joint surplus was to go into real estate, part of the property to be transferred to his name when he came of age.

To this the mother replied that Harold gave her only $10 a week, with an occasional extra $5. She said she did not feel that he has any claim on the real estate she now owns.

BOYS CAUGHT IT FOR SQUIRREL, BUT—WHEW!

This is Bill Wheaton broadcasting from the Cambridge office of the Boston Evening American a bedtime story for little boys and girls—and grownups, too.

This, folks, is the story of Harry and Maitland La Rose, boy trappers of Cambridge, and a squirrel that was not a squirrel at all. It has a moral as all good bedtime stories have.

Harry is 12 and Maitland is 10 and last night they left their home at 37 Brookford st. and wandered over to Russell Field.

"Looka the big squirrel," said Maitland. Harry looked and saw. It was a very large squirrel with a bushy tail and it was all black and white.

COAT FOR MA.

"I know," said Harry. "We'll set a trap and maybe we can catch enough for a squirrel coat for mama."

So they set the trap and went home and hardly slept all night thinking about the squirrel they were going to catch Right after breakfast today they hurried down to Russell field. There, sure enough, was the squirrel in the trap.

"Aha, Tommy Squirrel, we've caught you," said Maitland.

Harry dispatched the catch with a stone and removed it from the trap.

"I'll carry it," he said.

"Part way," said Maitland. "I gotta carry it, too. I helped catch it."

So they carried it home and hid it beneath the back steps and hurried off to the Sleeper school.

About 9:30 o'clock, Teacher Alice Stacey began wriggling up her nose and requested one of her pupils to open a window. The open window made no difference. Harry Rose sat innocently reading his lesson. Teacher Stacey fled for a conference with Principal Elizabeth Nelligan.

ODORS REPORTED.

"Come into my classroom," she said. "There's something horribly smelly in there."

"Why, I've got to go down to Teacher Madeleine Sullivan's class first," said Principal Nelligan. "She has just been here to report the same thing."

Well, little folks, finally the principal went to Teacher Sullivan's class and selected Maitland to accompany her—at a safe distance. And then she went to Teacher Stacey's class and chose Harry.

"You've both been near a skunk," she accused. "Go home and change your clothes and use plenty of soap and water."

"But it wasn't a skunk," said Harry. "It was a squirrel."

That of course is the moral of this bedtime story: Use No Hooks.

Dies in Neuilly Hospital

Paris, March 23 (INS)—Mrs. Henry Brevoort Kane of New York and Providence, R. I., died today in the American hospital at Neuilly. Her husband was at the bedside. Funeral services will be held at the American Cathedral on Monday.

IN ROMANCE

Mrs. Minnie Kirby, 60, of Winthrop st., Cambridge, who will become bride of Daniel W. Stimson, 70, North Adams, an old-time friend, Sunday. She wrote Stimson asking if he could help find her a housekeeper's job. He proposed, and she said "Yes."

SIX KILLED BY A BLAZING TREE

Leaf, Miss., March 23 (AP)—Six bodies had been recovered today from beneath the smouldering ruins of a giant Mississippi pine tree which fell without warning, burying seven children and the driver of an automobile in which they were riding beneath its blazing mass.

David Goff, driver of the automobile, and his 14-year-old daughter, Marie, seated beside him, met almost instant death as the heavy forest monarch struck the automobile.

At the same moment, Nettie and Hattie Goff, 11-year-old twin daughters of William Goff, and Edna Goff, 14, and Eva Mizell, 12, suffered fatal injuries from the crash.

Horace and Erastus Goff, 7 and 9 years old respectively, were seriously burned and suffered possible fractures, but escaped with their lives.

The tree had been burning for three days, but children passing to and from school had given no heed to the danger of it falling.

WIDOW PLEADS FOR HER SON TO RETURN HOME

"Come home" is the message that a Somerville widow sends today through the Boston Evening American to her son, Charles E. Grant, missing since Jan. 23 from his home, 122 Hudson st.

Charles Grant

The mother fears someone whom she does not know must be responsible for the youth's long absence, for she declares he was not discontented at home and never spoke of going away. He had not been well since suffering from influenza during the epidemic.

Young Grant is 23, medium height, about 155 pounds, light complexion and wears tortoise shell glasses. His mother said he had never been in trouble.

CESSATION OF QUAKE SAVED MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, March 23 (AP)—Had Wednesday night's earthquake in Mexico City lasted a few minutes longer at least 50 per cent of the buildings in the city would have collapsed, in the opinion of Joaquin Gallo, head of the Tacubaya observatory. Buildings gradually sinking for years especially would have been affected. Pedro Sanches, chief of the geographical section of the Department of Agriculture, said the city's muddy sub soil, acting like a cushion, saved the capital from destruction.

GEORGIA AND FLORIDA ON LYNCHING "CLEAN SLATE"

New York, March 23 (AP)—For the first time Georgia and Florida appear on the lynching roll of honor of the Federal Council of Churches. There were no lynchings there last year, nor in 39 other states. There were 16 lynchings in seven states.

CLERK MANNING PAID TRIBUTE IN COURT

With bowed heads and in deep silence, judges, jurors, court officers, barristers, witnesses and spectators stood for one minute today in Judge Fosdick's session of Superior Court in tribute to the late John P. Manning, clerk of Superior Court.

The gesture, Judge Fosdick said, was in behalf of all the justices of that court, and in eulogizing the late clerk, he declared to those assembled:

"John P. Manning, for over 50 years clerk of the court, is dead. It is the wish of the justices that this public expression be made of their appreciation of his faithful, kindly, painstaking and accurate performance of the arduous and often perplexing duties of his office and of his never failing assistance to them in their work.

"By his death they and the public whom they and he served together have lost one upon whom absolute reliance could always be placed for his wise and loyal service, cheerfully given at whatever sacrifice on his part."

CONTEST NOONE WILL ON PLEA OF INSANITY

Claiming that the late George H. Noone, wealthy Milton contractor, was of unsound mind when he made his will, his wife, Ava M., and mother-in-law, Mrs. Ada C. Stoddard, contesting the testament in Middlesex Probate Court today, petitioned that a jury instead of a single justice hear the issues.

Judge John C. Leggat took the matter under advisement. There were three issues in the petition. They were that the will was not due influence was exerted by an atdue infleunce was exerted by an attorney when the will was drawn and that Noone was of unsound mind. The first two were withdrawn and the suit is based on the latter.

Noone bequeathed one-third of his estate to his wife, one-third to his son Richard and one-third to his mother.

Fearing that his mother-in-law would contest the document, Noone ordered the executor to fight "to the last ditch" any claim she might make because "he owed her nothing."

Mrs. Noone was always helpful and kind to her husband during his latter years and he was eccentric in his actions, her attorneys argued today in seeking to have a jury "frame the issues."

RICKENBACKER PREDICTS MORE HUB AIRPORTS

In five years time Boston will have from six to a dozen adequate airports within its bounds, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, famous war ace, predicted in outlining aviation conditions of the near future, at a meeting of 150 salesmen and dealers of the Cadillac organization of Boston.

The meeting took place in the Sheraton room of the Copley Plaza, the automobile men being guests of A. L. Danforth, president of the Cadillac Automobile Company of Boston.

Capt. Rickenbacker, who is now sales manager of the LaSalle division of the Cadillac Motor Company of Detroit, declared that the airplane of today is a mere kite compared to the airplane of tomorrow.

"Air transportation is here, it is not coming," he said, "and today we are traveling more air miles than all the other countries of the world put together.

BIG LINERS BEING BUILT.

"You gentlemen have no conception of the leaps and bounds that have been made in the airplane industry. Today in a foreign country there is in the making a giant plane at a cost of $1,000,000 to carry 100 passengers, and with every known convenience that a transatlantic liner has. Dirigibles are being built that will make a regular passage from New York and Boston to Europe, as well as from London to Australia, and from London to South America.

"In 20 years' time we will have a giant dirigible that will carry an entire squadron of scout planes in its stomach, launch them in midair, pick them up in midair, refuel them and send them out again, and all the time traveling at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

"Boston, with its one-mile square airport today is as inadequate as an alley through which all the traffic of your city was obliged to pass. I predict that in five years' time Boston, on the great circle as it is, a natural port of embarkation and entry, will have from six to a dozen adequate fields within its bounds.

RAILROAD AIRPORTS

"All the large railroad lines are building today with a view to the air travel of tomorrow. For the past five years one of the largest of them has had a corps of engineers working out their plans for the airplane of tomorrow. Every railroad yard is an airport. Just put a covering over it and there it is."

He said there will be 50,000,000 automobiles owned and registered in this country in 20 years, and predicted double-decked streets and super-highways, with a width of 150 to 200 feet, with others of the same dimensions leading to South America with a rate of speed of from 100 to 125 miles an hour. He added that the motor car, the railroad, the steamship and the airplane all complement each other, and no one of them need fear the other.

NAMES ARCHIE ROOSEVELT IN OIL PROBE

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Beating the bushes again today in search of the Continental Trading Co. Liberty bonds, the Senate oil committee heard further evidence of the relations between Will H. Hays, former Republican national chairman, and Harry F. Sinclair.

Incidentally, it was told that Archie Roosevelt "had had a few highballs" when he became convinced that Sinclair was sending money to the ranch of Albert B. Fall.

Merritt Baldwin of Meriden, Ct., former confidential employe of Sinclair, said Hays was a frequent visitor at the oil man's office at one period. He believed Hays merely came in to say "Hello."

He also told of securities kept by Sinclair in a vault of the Empire Trust Co., New York, but knew nothing of the Continental bonds.

ARCHIE'S "MYSTERY" JOB.

As to Archie Roosevelt, the witness said he assumed Roosevelt referred to a check he saw for $68,000, which was sent to Sam Hildreth, trainer of Sinclair's Rancocas racing stables.

"Archie had a few highballs," he said, adding that the check was shown to Roosevelt, who was a Sinclair employe.

Asked what Archie Roosevelt's duties were, Baldwin said he never was able to figure that out.

The $25,000 Liberty bond "loan" which Harry F. Sinclair made to Albert B. Fall in June, 1923, prior to Fall's trip to Russia with Sinclair was inquired into.

Baldwin told the committee that while he could give no information about the Continental Trading Company bonds which Sinclair received he knew Sinclair wanted Fall as "an outside attorney" and particularly to make the trip to Russia, where Sinclair was seeking oil concessions from the Soviet government.

"I think Col. J. W. Zevely was asked to procure the services of Senator Fall, as Mr. Sinclair felt he was the best man for the job," Baldwin said.

"I think Senator Fall wired Col. Zevely that he could not go as he was planning a deal in New Mexico and could not go until that was consummated. He also said he needed a lot of money and Sinclair loaned him the money. Senator Fall could not go with us, but came over later."

The witness said he left in May with Sinclair and the bond payment was made later.

"Did Senator Fall go to Russia?" asked Senator Walsh.

"Yes, sir, to Moscow," Baldwin replied.

"That's strange, my recollection is that the testimoney shows Senator Fall did not get further than London," Walsh observed.

"Well, he went to Russia, all right," Baldwin said.

Baldwin was excused after being on the stand for one hour and a half. The committee then recessed until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, when A. D. Lasker of Chicago, former chairman of the Shipping Board, will be asked about his political contributions since 1920.

Marsh Accepts Service for Grand Jury Probe

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—Wilbur W. Marsh of Waterloo, Iowa, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, went to the federal building here today and accepted service of a summons to testify before the federal grand jury in New York.

CAFE BOMBED, MAN SLAIN, IN CHICAGO'S RUM WAR

Chicago, March 23—A black powder bomb of terrific force today was exploded in a Forest Park restaurant and bar, injuring one man and completely wrecking a one-story frame building.

The explosion spread terror through a number of western suburbs rocked by the blast.

John Infonta, kneeling at prayer, was shot dead early today—three bullets in the back. He was the second to fall before assassins' bullets within 30 hours in Chicago's rum war.

"The Dimie," as they called Diamond Joe Esposito, was killed near his home Wednesday night with 58 shotgun slugs in his body.

NEW RADIO LAW TO CAUSE BIG SHAKEUP

Washington, March 23 (INS)—American broadcasting is due for another and complete shakeup.

The Federal Radio Commission today prepared to start work on general reallocation of wave lengths, power reductions, station eliminations and re-distribution, anticipating the passage of the new radio bill which carries an "equal distribution clause."

Commissioner O. H. Caldwell, who vigorously protested against the equal distribution clause as originally drawn, regards the revamped section as unworkable and feels it will work a great hardship on listeners who enjoy distant programs, as well as many broadcasters.

More than 100 broadcasters may be silenced under the new plan. A preliminary survey indicated that under the law only 550 stations can operate whereas 860 broadcasters are now on the air. The commission indicates no time division and that licenses will be issued for unlimited operation.

The New York and Chicago districts will be hardest hit. The law apparently limits the five zones to 110 stations each. There are in operation 225 stations in the Chicago district, while the number in the New York district is smaller.

FRANCIS G. KANE POST MEETS TUESDAY

A meeting of Francis G. Kane Post No. 60, American Legion, is scheduled at the municipal building, Columbia rd., Dorchester, next Tuesday, Commander William F. Moran presiding. Among the affairs to be discussed will be the membership drive now under way under the direction of Past Commander Walter R. White.

Plans for a May party by the post will be outlined, together with the program for Memorial Day exercises. Upon completion of the regular business for the evening, a celebration is to be in order.

SMART SET IS PREPARING FOR NEXT WINTER

Five Senior Supper Dances Already Are Listed, Says Betty Alden

EXTREMELY FOREHANDED AND FORESIGHTED ARE CERTAIN matrons and men of social prominence. March is just roaring itself out in a not too ferocious manner and these same farsighted ones are up and about arranging next winter's calendar. Snapping up favorite evenings for the senior and the junior supper dances occupies the time and attention of Ronald T. Lyman, for the first, and of Mrs. James Lawrence for the second. And both series, as in previous winters, take their enjoyable way at the Hotel Copley-Plaza.

I BELIEVE THERE WILL BE five of the senior dances. And but three of the juniors, or perhaps four. This season's [illegible] having been largely successful [illegible] will probably be followed another winter. Three dances there will be of a certainty. And a [illegible] date [illegible] taken for a [illegible]. But the most important part [illegible] the dates, have been decided upon. Living so far forward into the future has its drawbacks, to be sure. But if one is mother to a budding debutante or is otherwise concerned [illegible] foresightedness is almost a necessary. In the [illegible] days are [illegible]

AND THE GOOD ONES ARE greatly in demand. Fridays of course, are the creme. Since for debutantes, for juniors and for seniors that day of the week brings cessation of college or business duties. Result, the male contingent is at leisure, ready and willing to trip the light measure way into the morning of next day, and in such numbers as to make the party "thrilling" to every feminine participant. For the senior supper dance, at the Copley-Plaza, the last of the series, there is prospect of a large and very smart turnout.

FROM A PARTY OF 32, HAVING Mrs. Gelston King as hostess, numbers diminish to groups of 10, one of which has Miss Elizabeth Beal as hostess. Mrs. Charles Boyden brings a dozen guests; Mrs. Lawrence Morgan, 10; Mrs. Edward Cunningham, 16. Mrs. James Jackson Minot, Jr., is hostess for twelve at dinner and at the dance. Mrs. Theodore Frothingham is a petite hostess for a group of 16. Mrs. George H. Whitney entertains [illegible]. Mrs. Herbert Jaques [illegible]. Mrs. Norman [illegible]. And [illegible] the way, is back from Bermuda [illegible] for the final supper dance of this season.

Nothing lovelier than her bulb garden is to be conjured up in the most roseate of dreams. Mere words fail entirely to convey an idea of its charm, the vivid colors of iris and tulips, daffodils and hyacinths, the velvet of turf, the [illegible] of flowers and [illegible] the deeper green of [illegible] trees.

DOWN AT AIKEN, IN THE South Carolina hills, spring comes early, to the end that society lengthens its stay and continues its favorite pursuits—polo and the hunt. Match play by picked polo teams goes on at Aiken twice weekly, and everyone within the radius of 30 miles gathers about the fields. From Augusta the spectators come by motor. For the Aikenites every sort of horse conveyance is pressed into service. The buggy, the saddle horse and the coach and four share high place in the regard of Aiken's winter colony.

IN THE STABLES OF MR. Augustus F. Goodwin of Boston and Hamilton, now with his family prominent in the Aiken winter colony, there is a bright and shining coach very often [illegible] to the polo [illegible]. One [illegible] the coach had aboard Mrs. Goodwin, a daughter, Miss Betty Barrell, and with her were Miss Marie Cross and Miss Margaret L. Fuck, with Mrs. Joseph Wilshire holding the reins.

AIKEN ALREADY HAS FIVE polo fields, and two more are in the making. But a season or two must pass before these new stretches of velvety turf are fashioned to the perfection required for so dashing a sport. Boston

TO WED HEROINE OF HIS NOVEL

Paris, March 23 (INS)—Michael Arlen, British novelist, who was said by his friends to have suffered a broken heart when he failed to win the hand of Miss Audrey Emery, wealthy American girl, two years ago, has become engaged to Contessina Atlanta Mercati and the couple will be married at Cannes on May 2, it was learned today.

The ceremony will be performed in the Russian church.

The contessina is the 22-year-old daughter of Count and Countess Mercati of Florence. Her stepmother was formerly Mrs. Newbold Leroy Edgar of New York. Her father at one time was chamberlain to the King of Greece.

Wife of $120 Month Clerk Out-Finances Mellon

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The ability of a dutiful and economical housewife to make a salary of $125 a month feed and clothe a family of five is regarded by a Treasury Department clerk as exceeding even the fiscal talents of his millionaire employer, Secretary Mellon.

Tearfully telling his story before a House committee considering a bill to increase the pay of government employes, Tate T. Hackney, a $1500-a-year treasury clerk, related how great a struggle it was for him, or rather his wife, to make ends meet for themselves and their three small children.

"Secretary Mellon is a great financial genius," he sobbed, "but the laurels go to that real financial genius—the little woman who takes my $120 a month and makes it care for a family of five."

Hackney, wearing a coat that belonged to his father-in-law 14 years ago and a pair of trousers of an old Palm Beach suit, assured the committee he was not trying to be "spectacular" and asked to be pardoned for his appearance.

JACK GILBERT, GRETA GARBO HEAD CAST

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los ANGELES, March 23—Greta and Jack and Clarence together again. Put that down in the red notebook for future reference. You remember they were together in "The Flesh and the Devil," the Scandinavian beauty as the heroine, the handsome Jack Gilbert as the hero and the talented Clarence Brown as the wielder of the megaphone. And wasn't that a picture? One of the kind to talk about the long winter evenings when movies are being discussed.

The picture that brings the trio together again is "The Son of St. Moritz," by Paul Oskar Hoecker. It is now being put into screen form by W[illegible] and will be ready for [illegible] the middle of next month.

Now perhaps you are wondering what has happened to Fred Niblo's "War in the Dark," by Ludwig Wolff, the one that Bess Meredyth has been so busily preparing for the screen. Not a thing in the world. Greta Garbo will play the lead for Niblo but she will have to make love to some one besides Jack Gilbert for they are giving her another leading man.

Speaking of Greta, she looks mighty fit these days. I saw her and Jack quietly lunching together and every woman in the room made note of the simplicity of her costume and the grace with which she wore that plain tailored suit.

'Twas All Dutch to Chickens; You Can Believe It or Not!

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—Nature faking bobs up in strange places; still, one would hardly suspect the police.

Sixteen chickens taken into custody by the South Chicago police were being held for their owner, when along came one Ypk Devris, a Hollander.

"How can you prove them your animals?" asked the skeptical sergeant.

Ypk and the sergeant, more skeptical than ever, repaired to the cell in which the chickens were asleep. Ypk spoke to them in native Dutch. The chickens, awakening, began to cackle and flap their wings.

This is the police story, and, true or otherwise, Ypk got the chickens.

The Proper Care for

PEDIGREED STOCKINGS

THAYER MCNEIL's famous line of hosiery—or any other well-known line—will wear and wear it they are well cared for. Washing them correctly is most important. Follow the rules of a well-known hosiery manufacturer:

1. Wash after each wearing—perspiration rots silk.
2. Use mild soap and luke-warm water—harsh soap and hot water quickly ruin silk or wool hose.
3. If cake soap is used, make a light suds with your hands—soap rubbed on fabric is injurious.
4. Use two teaspoonfuls of soap flakes for one gallon of water. If less water is used, the soap should be correspondingly less—too much soap may affect the color.
5. Wash stockings as quickly as possible by squeezing suds through them—soaking and rubbing will dull the natural lustre and weaken the fibre.
6. Rinse thoroughly in clear, luke-warm water, squeeze out, and dry naturally in the shade. Do not twist or wring, and avoid pressing with a hot iron and drying on radiators—heat makes silk brittle and shortens the life of the hosiery.

JEW IS FIRST TO AID 'TAY PAY' IRISH FUND

New York, March 23 (AP)—Announcement of a first donation of $10,000 by Bernhard Barron, Jewish philanthropist, to a fund being raised for education of Irish children in Great Britain was made today in an appeal from T. P. O'Connor, known as "Father of the British House of Commons," for support of the project.

In a statement made public two days after he sailed for England, "Tay Pay" said conditions of the general mass of Irish people in Great Britain "is the one sad reflection" in a story of Irish progress throughout the world.

"Many of them occupy slum quarters," he said. "Many of them are still in the most laborious and in the worst-paid occupations.

"My purpose and my ambition is to train the brightest among them, girls as well as boys, from 14 to 18 years of age, so that when they do start, they will not be compelled to seek the first job for unskilled hands and untrained hands.

"I have already got promises of assistance from leading men of the Irish race in Great Britain. I make an urgent appeal to the men of Irish race and of large wealth in the United States to help me in fulfilling this last mission of my life."

O'Connor said a preliminary committee has been formed to assist him in handling his plan.

"[illegible] of the public's memory [illegible] has already forgotten [illegible] was president [illegible] Boston Elevated [illegible] the ground and wrecked and exhausted [illegible] public utility," the statement read.

"If any single individual can be held responsible for the 1918 public control act it is this same Mr. Brush. He now has the colossal nerve to come over here from Washington [illegible] agent and tell us what we ought to do or ought not to do with the Elevated.

"It is beyond my comprehension how an intelligent body of men like the Boston Chamber of Commerce had the patience to sit and listen to him. Wonders will never cease.

"Brush said that if the road were turned over to public ownership the Elevated employes would be plunged into politics. Can you imagine that? Did he not play politics with the road when he was president of it?"

Rhodes and Turner, after receiving treatment at the hospital, were permitted to go to their homes. The machine was demolished.

5 TONS OF QUININE WORTH $100,000 SEIZED IN N. Y.

New York, March 23 (INS)—In the course of investigating an alleged "world trust" monopolizing the quinine industry, the government today seized $100,000 worth of the drug at the establishment of R. W. Greeff & Co., 94 Pearl st.

This was the first such drastic move under the Wilson tarriff act and was under orders of the Attorney-General in Washington. Five tons of quinine were confiscated and taken to the army [illegible] Brooklyn.

This Charger Works By Itself

One of the strongest talking points for the APCO Automatic "A" Charger is the fact that it works by itself.

The radio owner who buys one connects it up in the first place and then forgets it for good.

The radio set filament switch exercises complete control. When the set is turned on the Charger is automatically disconnected and the "B" Eliminator goes to work.

When the switch is turned off the "B" Eliminator is disconnected and the Charger takes up its task without being told, at a rate sufficient to keep the battery always in proper condition.

LYNN DOG THIEVES DOING BIG BUSINESS

Two dog thieves who apparently are taking advantage of the dog muzzling order now in effect in Lynn have stolen a dozen valuable canines in the past week. Even Police Inspector James P. Laughan lost a setter from in front of his Walnut street home. Neighbors reported two men in a touring car "kidnaped" the animal.

Then Ernest Cloon, game warden, lost his setter. He saw the dog in a Saugus pet store and claimed it. The shop proprietor said it had been sold him by two men in a touring car.

WOMAN VICTIM OF TWO AUTOS IDENTIFIED

The woman killed in Washington st., Newton, and whose death has given police the baffling problem which one of two autos killed her, was identified today as Miss Catherine Monaghan, 57, of 227 Center st., Newton.

Identification was made by Mrs. Thomas Flaherty, at whose home the dead woman had lived for three years. Mrs. Flaherty told police she had sat up all night waiting for her friend.

The Monaghan woman, whose cousin, Patrolman John Monaghan, is a day officer in the Newton police department, left home last night to attend a meeting of the Ladies' Society in the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians at Washington and Adams sts.

Police say the woman was run over by two machines and killed by one of them, [illegible] the second one also striking and injuring Patrick J. Donahue of West Newton, as he was stooping over to lift the woman's body from the roadway.

The woman suffered a compound fracture of the skull. Donahue was severely injured, suffering cuts and bruises about the head and face and a sprained left leg.

[illegible] of 45 [illegible] st., Newton, [illegible] was the driver of the first auto [illegible] to strike the woman as she was crossing Washington st. at [illegible] st.

WINTHROP CAFE OWNER GIVEN JAIL TERM

A total of five months in jail and $300 in fines was imposed in East Boston court today on Peter Piakias, proprietor of a Shirley st., Winthrop restaurant, where, according to Lieut. James H. Douglas, boys, girls and women frequently obtained intoxicants.

Piakias pleaded guilty to keeping and exposing liquor for sale and to attempting to bribe Patrolmen Northrup and Baker of the Winthrop police who raided his establishment, seizing 2½ gallons of alcohol.

On the charge of keeping and exposing Piakias was given one month and fined $100. On each of the charges of attempting to bribe he was given two months and fined $100.

The raid on the restaurant followed the charge made by Chairman Whitman of the Winthrop Board of Selectmen that high school pupils were obtaining liquor and that a stone could not be thrown on Shirley st. without hitting a speakeasy.

Lieut. Douglas, who prosecuted the case, told the court that when the officers entered the restaurant Piakias offered them $5 each to go away, promising them more money next week on the ground that business was bad at present.

The lieutenant said that Piakias had been selling liquor indiscriminately to boys, girls and women. Boys, he said, took liquor to the street and resold it, women were served liquor in the restaurant and many complaints were received that women and girls in an intoxicated condition were seen coming out of the place.

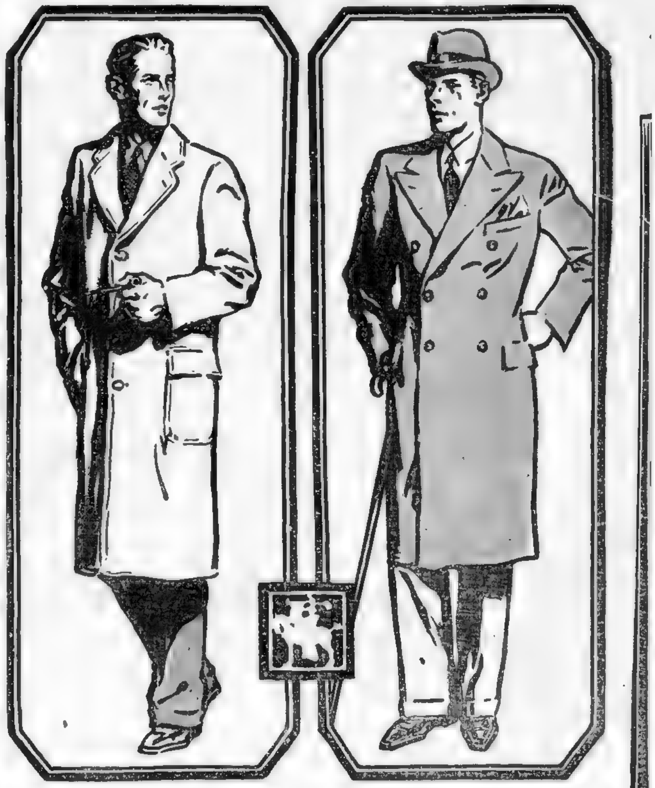
THE HARD LIFE OF A TOPCOAT DEMANDS STOUTHEARTED FABRICS



HART SCHAFFNER & MARX
FOUR-WINDS TOPCOATS

Created for more wear and style

A topcoat must take a lot of punishment if it serves you well. One day it's a drizzle—it must keep you dry. Next it's sunny—it must give you style. Then it's a motor trip—doubled up in seats when you're not wearing it. But it must come up smiling.

Four-Winds cloth has been created to meet all these needs; heavy enough for long wear, light and soft enough for comfort and easy drape.

DOWAGER, 72, REAL LEAP YEAR BRIDE

PROPOSED MARRIAGE TO BUTLER

New York, March 23—Mrs. J. Pierrepont Burden, 72-year-old wealthy society dowager, was a real leap-year bride, for former employes of the widow insist that she proposed marriage to her 42-year-old butler, John Burden.

Perturbed relatives, seeking news of the elopers, were so informed by several of the employes whom Burden discharged immediately on exchanging his role of butler for that of master.

But on the other hand those employes who still are in the good graces of Burden and are retained at Woodwood [illegible], Bedford Hills, in Westchester, are vehement in their assertions that the butler stepped forth like a man and a soldier and spoke his piece first to the widow.

Of the courtship of the widow and the butler, Charles Liney, six-foot foreman, 24 [illegible] chauffeur, gives the most [illegible] insert. Liney was the first servant to be dismissed by Burden. Several others, he said, left of their own accord.

Liney said: "When Edwards was dying he made me promise that I would always look after his wife and do the driving. He knew I had her interests at heart. Two years ago I told her son-in-law, Robert J. Turnbull, things were heading toward a wedding. I told him so again last August.

"Burden used to send her letters from Egypt saying [illegible] thinking of you. He wrote a lot of poetry. When he came back you'd never know [illegible] were in the car. He told of [illegible] the Black Watch did."

Burden served in the Black Watch during the war [illegible] who was [illegible] New York to serve in the British army.

Continuing, Liney said: "He used to ride beside her in the car. And I had to leave the butler. He did not used to stand that high in the house. A celestial light would come into Mrs. Edwards' eyes and she would gaze in [illegible] admiration [illegible] the noble warrior."

One day, Liney asserted, Mrs. Edwards suddenly exclaimed during a drive: "You are too nice to be a butler. I will make you my secretary." Soon thereafter, servants in the household learned they had lost a fellow worker and had gained a master.

[illegible] Mrs. Burden and her husband, [illegible] annoyed at the publicity they are receiving, have gone into seclusion.

From other employes it was learned that Burden came to the Edwards family at its New York residence, 790 Park ave., from [illegible] Madison [illegible] from Egypt [illegible] with the Black Watch [illegible] poetry he had written to Mrs. Edwards.

State House Employe Starts Her 36th Year

CONGRATULATED BY FELLOW OFFICE WORKERS

Miss Emma W. Kelley of Concord today celebrated the anniversary of her 35th year as an employe of the State. In the comptroller's office she received the congratulations of her fellow office workers and was presented a beautiful floral gift. The group in the picture shows Helena A. Kneeland of Salem, C. Helen Hayes of Boston, Ethel F. O'Leary of Roxbury, Anna M. Crowley of Somerville and, seated, Miss Kelley.

Great Story on Life; Gripping As a Novel; Fascinating As a Movie

CHAPTER 21

WITHOUT habits we are in a bad way, as poorly equipped for life as though we had surrendered to habits—then we are in a bad way. The clock striking 12 may be adequate stimulus for me to remove my clothes. If I cannot control that stimulus, the automatism will [illegible]; the clock strikes that hour twice a day.

This is an extreme case, but it will serve. The clock strikes 12, bedtime. But noon is not midnight. The mere stroke of 12 is not an adequate stimulus. My bodily mechanism is not in the habit of running down at the noon hour.

If noon is my hour for food, the stroke of twelve sets off a different [illegible]. If my noon behavior is a routine and well learned habit and carries me through, I close my desk, adjust my desk, reach for my hat and coat, etc. The one [illegible] at my desk. Habit carried me through the hour. My [illegible] activity was [illegible].

DURING that [illegible] hour I performed [illegible] of [illegible] acts, one after another, in regular order, [illegible] a fairly distinct [illegible] of behavior. Although [illegible] with fishing tackle [illegible] I did not have to look out for lampposts, breaks in the pavement or stepdowns at the curb. I had learned to thread crowded streets, remove my hat, [illegible], eat with a knife, pay the meal check, etc. All [illegible] performances [illegible] acquired reflexes, habits. Otherwise, the one hour allotted for my meal would not have sufficed. One unlearned in city streets might spend a half hour crossing Times square; if unaccustomed to a menu, much time in deciding what to order.

We begin with no acquired habits; we begin at once to acquire them; with these, to acquire others. But when we get to be mere bundles of habits, when we know [illegible] our mind is made up, when nothing can move us, we are through; we have used up [illegible] the book [illegible] we [illegible] on which to write our life.

PEOPLE do get that way. They [illegible] for new experience, [illegible] plasticity [illegible] to change. [illegible] as they used to be." In [illegible] respond to [illegible] who cannot [illegible] out of luck. [illegible] in middle [illegible] change their [illegible] with [illegible] is wasted [illegible] energy. They do not merely change conditions, nor [illegible] adapted.

The [illegible] golfer is not thinking about his stroke; he knows his golf; it is a habit. He is thinking about the cup, or his girl. If he had to think out each stroke, he could not even [illegible]. Ask him to describe any one particular shot after [illegible] he probably will not even [illegible].

[illegible]

One day [illegible] moves which? [illegible] habits to such a pitch [illegible] exhausted in the ditch.

ACTS TO SAVE U. S. OIL LANDS

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Secretary Wilbur today urged the House naval committee to give the Navy department authority to protect the Western oil reserves by the exchange of certain lands with private companies or by the negotiating of compensatory contracts with such companies.

He presented a tentative draft of a bill to give the department such [illegible] submitted today [illegible] earlier in the session.

The secretary told the committee that in the Teapot Dome reserve the Standard Oil Company owned three sections almost in the center of the reserve area. He said while one of these sections, No. 36, was in litigation, the others were not and the department desired to work out some arrangement whereby the Teapot reserve would be protected in the event the Standard Oil opened up wells along the [illegible] boundary.

BOND CLERK IS GIVEN 6 MONTHS

Harold R. Paasteall, 27 years [illegible] bookkeeper for Hulsey, Stuart & Co., Devonshire st., bond brokers, who on Tuesday pleaded guilty to the larceny of $[illegible] from that firm in Municipal Court today, was sentenced to six months by Judge Bolster and appealed.

Frees Man Who Buys Liquor in Lawrence to "Sell in Maine"

Lawrence, March 23 (AP)—Ralph Maurice, 37, of Sanford, Me., was acquitted of a charge of illegal keeping of liquor when he convinced Judge Chandler in district court today that he came here to buy liquor to sell in Sanford.

When Maurice was arrested police found four gallons of alcohol in his suitcase. Judge Chandler ruled that as Maurice made no attempt to sell the liquor here he could not be held for illegal keeping.

He was released after paying a $10 fine for drunkenness.

New York, March 23 (INS)—[illegible] explosive [illegible] found today at 14th st. and Ninth ave., by traffic police, while hundreds of [illegible] were passing the congested intersection.

The bombs consisted of two canisters of heavy tin. One contained "black powder," the other buckshot. The cylinders were about [illegible]

'Mystery Woman' Took Own Life for Love

Washington, March 23 (INS)—The mystery woman taken from a Pullman berth on a New York train here Wednesday, apparently lifeless, and who later at the district morgue was discovered to be alive, was positively identified today as Mrs. Mae Josephine True, daughter of Francis McRobey, a Maryland farmer. The woman died late yesterday.

Identification was made by a sister, Mrs. Rose Felda of Walson, Md. She said an unfortunate love affair probably caused her sister to commit suicide.

Taken from a Pullman berth on a New York train, Wednesday, and pronounced dead, the woman was removed to the morgue and laid out in a slab. An attendant noticed a slight twitching of the neck muscles. Doctors and the fire rescue squad were summoned, and she was taken to a hospital, where for 36 hours a thrilling battle was fought to preserve the faint spark of life. Artificial respiration, blood transfusion, injections of stimulants into the heart—everything known to medical science was tried.

The battle ended, though, when the spark flickered out.

A towel soaked with chloroform covered her face. All marks of identification had been destroyed. There was only a note in an envelope containing a withered white rose. It said: "Please bury this with me."

LEAGUE FIGHTS 'NIGHT SHIFT' FOR WOMEN

Opposition to any change in the 48-hour law which would increase the number of hours for women employed in industry was voiced today by the Massachusetts League of Women Voters [illegible] the Legislature.

The League also went on record against the [illegible] which has passed the Senate [illegible] now before the House, permitting women to work in the textile industry between [illegible] and 10 p. m.

The League refused to recognize any [illegible] necessary [illegible] hour law and is of [illegible] that any proposal [illegible] for [illegible] an impartial group on which employers [illegible] represented [illegible] by the commissioner of labor and industries [illegible]

FULLER VETOES WATERTOWN 'L' SHELTER

In his first veto of the session, Gov. Fuller today sent back to the Legislature, without his approval, a bill authorizing the Elevated to erect and maintain a shelter in Watertown.

The Governor declared that the land on which it is proposed to erect the shelter was acquired by the Metropolitan District Commission and afterwards deeded to Watertown with the restriction that no buildings or other structures except a flagpole should be erected [illegible] The location is in the main [illegible] of the town.

10 YEARS FOR BURGLAR WHO ADMITS 50 CRIMES

Rochester, N. Y., March 23 (INS)—Pleading guilty to burglary and grand larceny, John Nye, 23, of Hamilton, Ont., the "West Side Burglar" who has terrorized Rochester for three months, was today sentenced to 5 to 10 years in Auburn Prison. Nye admitted more than 50 [illegible] was [illegible] in the home of an [illegible] elderly woman who he had promised to protect against the "West Side Burglar."

5 MEN AND RUM TAKEN IN RAID AT DUXBURY

Duxbury, March 23—With John Horgan, one of the men of the Manomet Point station whose surfboat capsized drowning three, during rescue operations at the stranded [illegible] Robert E. Lee, in the party, Coast Guards today raided the closed Hotel Gurnet here.

Five men were arrested and 59 cases of choice liquors, apparently newly landed on the beach, were seized.

The men arrested gave their names as Fred Snow of Warren st., Roxbury; William King of Dartmouth st., Boston; James Davis of [illegible] st., [illegible] Daniel Woorf of L[illegible] and Carl Hayes of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Arraigned before Judge Elmer L. Briggs in Plymouth, the five pleaded [illegible] to [illegible] liquor charge and were held in $[illegible] each until April 1.

The Gurnet is a summer hotel, closed early last fall. According to the Coast Guards the men arrested were "squatters" on the premises and the owner did not know of their presence.

In court the Coast Guards declared the liquor was landed at night and stored in the hotel to await arrival of trucks to transport it.

Pupils Meet Fuller

A group of boys and girls from the Centre junior high school of Malden called at the State House, and shook hands with one of the most distinguished alumni of the school, Governor Fuller.

THEATER SHOW FREE ON YOUR BIRTHDAY

Many happy returns of your birthdays!

That greeting is from the Boston Evening American and Loew's State Theater to 20 boys and girls whose natal days are close at hand. We have birthday presents of theater tickets.

Honestly! It's hardly what you call a contest, although only boys and girls 16 years or under will receive the gifts. If you like to attend the theater (and what boys and girls do not?) and your natal day is approaching you can be the Boston Evening American's guest at Loew's State Theater.

Beginning Wednesday, the Boston Evening American and Loew's State Theater will invite 20 boys and girls on their birthdays as guests at the theater.

If your birthday is approaching write a letter at once to the Birthday Editor of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. And give one reason why you are glad you were born in the month in which your birthday occurs. For instance:

"Dear Birthday Ticket Editor.

"My name is Gertrude Ems. I live at 34 Chestnut st., B[illegible]ville. I will be 13 years old Friday, March 30. I am glad I was born late in March, because it's three months from Christmas, and my older brother has had time to save up enough to buy me a birthday present."

In addition, 20 very attractive birthday cards will be given daily. So if your birthday is next Wednesday or after notify the Birthday Editor and put on your best theater dress (pardon me, boys).

School Girl Robbed Despite "Thou Shalt Not Steal" Sign

"Thou Shalt Not Steal" on a sign tacked up in Rose Goodman's locker at Dorchester high school, failed to deter thieves from taking her $285 raccoon fur coat.

She reported the theft to school authorities. Mrs. Lillian Goodman of Helen st., declared she would make a report to the school committee.

Principal Thomas is of opinion that an outsider broke into the locker and said such intrusion was hard to prevent.

The girl had placed the placard in that locker because, she said, she had previously lost a $4 scarf, a $5 pair of gloves and some notebooks.

FINED $200 FOR BRIBE OFFER IN LIQUOR CASE

Robert Talent had some of that greater love which inspires sacrifice for a friend, and although it didn't cost him his life today in Dedham Court he was set back $200 in cash and must serve 30 days in the House of Correction.

Talent, who lives in Millis, was accused of offering a $50 bribe to Patrolman Peter L. Driscoll of Westwood if Driscoll would "swap" two quarts of moonshine liquor for two quarts of white vinegar.

The policeman had arrested Joseph Lubin, also of Millis, on a charge of transporting liquor, and Talent sought, according to the charge, to spirit the evidence away.

The court deferred the jail sentence until April 13.

Lubin was fined, and paid $100 for the alleged illegal transportation.

Carrigan Postpones Cutting Red Sox Squad

SOX RETAIN ROOKIE PITCHERS

Manager Carrigan Will Give Seven Youngsters Further Once Over in South

By JOE CASHMAN

Bradenton, Fla., March 23—The seven rookies who were due to be dropped from the Red Sox squad after tomorrow's game in Savannah, Ga., are the happiest young men in the universe today as they have been informed that they will be kept awhile longer.

They have another thing in their favor. Manager Carrigan will watch their work with an open mind, and if any of them shows great improvement, Bill will be only too glad to admit his mistake in judgement.

The lucky seven are Pitchers Bushey, Sterling, Stokes, Loshi and Traynor, Catcher Connolly and Outfielder Small.

They are in Savannah today, playing with the Yanngans while the regulars are facing Baltimore here. The latter will leave for Georgia early this evening, officially closing the Bradenton visit, one of the most successful and enjoyable the Sox have ever experienced.

As a victory over the Orioles this afternoon will mean a .500 percentage in exhibition games, the Sox will go after the contest from the start. To date they have won six out of 13 games, which is a very good showing considering that they have stacked up against such teams as the Braves, Cardinals and Giants.

UMPIRING WAS POOR

Baltimore tied the Fenway Yanngans at Auburndale, 4 to 4, but Jack Dunn's aggregation will find the going much tougher against the Sox regulars.

The first stringers are full of pep after their two great battles with the Giants and it is going to take a lot of baseball to beat them. With any kind of a break in luck, the Carrigans would have beaten New York yesterday as well as the day before.

In both games they cut down big leads and were in the fight until the last man was out.

One of these days they are going to get their share of the breaks. And when that time comes they are going to win plenty of games if they still have that never-say-die spirit they exhibited against the Giants.

Twice in yesterday's game they cut down three run leads and but for three very atrocious decisions by Umpire Pfirman of the National League, they would probably have walked off with the verdict.

The umpiring was so bad it got a rise out of Bill Carrigan, the first he has made this spring.

New York Tracks Will Not Recognize Ban on Sinclair

New York, March 23—The ruling of the Maryland racing commission barring the horses owned by Harry F. Sinclair from the tracks of that State because of his connection with the Teapot Dome scandal, will not be recognized by the local turf body. This was decided upon at a meeting of the Jockey Club.

A formal request from the Maryland commission was laid before the stewards, asking them to refuse the entries of Sinclair or the Rancocas stable.

Although only this bare statement was given out for publication, it is understood that local body views the Maryland ruling is a political move.

PAOLINO ADDED TO THE LIST OF CHALLENGERS

New York, March 23 (INS)—Four more heavyweights—in addition to Tom Heeney, Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko—were accepted as challengers of Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship by the New York State Athletic Commission at its meeting today.

The four new challengers are:

Paolino, the Spaniard.

George Godfrey, giant negro.

Jack Delaney.

Phil Scott, the Englishman.

The commission for months has had Heeney, Sharkey and Risko listed as challengers.

Action was deferred until next Tuesday on the failure of Tunney to accept any of the three challenges that had been on file in the commission's office. This was done because the commission found that Tunney is not licensed in New York State and therefore he is not under their jurisdiction. His license expired last August.

The commission had given Tunney until last midnight to accept the challenge of either Heeney, Sharkey or Risko. Under the commission's rules, a champion must defend his title at least every six months. Tunney's last fight was with Jack Dempsey in Chicago on Sept. 22, just six months and a day ago.

No action was taken on the protest of James J. Johnston, manager of Phil Scott, and [illegible] Scott with an agreement to fight Scott. The commission announced that Paolino and Scott could still get together.

De Mar's 44 Miles Not World's Record

While Clarence H. De Mar's Providence-to-Boston run undoubtedly broke the American record for 44 miles, it does not rank as the world's best performance.

May 12, 1913, E. W. Lord ran 44 miles at Stamford Bridge, England, in 5 hours 23 minutes 3 seconds. He ran on a cinder oval under conditions better than confronted De Mar.

Arthur Newton ran 50 miles over South African roads in 5 hours 53 minutes 5 seconds, but his intermediate times are not recorded. Evidently, from that time Newton must have covered 44 miles in much faster time than De Mar made, 5 hours 47 minutes 30 seconds.

Loren Murchison Will Try Comeback

Austin, Tex., March 23 (AP)—Loren Murchison, once one of the world's greatest sprinters, but who less than three months ago was fighting for his life in [illegible] with a general spinal meningitis, announced tonight he would try a comeback in the spring of 1929 at Chicago.

"Physically, I feel better than 10 years ago," Murchison said. "I believe I can come back, though there isn't the faintest hope of it this year. My legs just aren't in condition yet."

Whitney Gives Eli Crew New Mascot

New Haven, Ct., March 23 (AP)—An English bulldog for a mascot has been given to Yale's head rowing coach, Ed Leader, by John H. Whitney, 26, son of the late Payne Whitney of New York.

The new mascot has facial resemblances to Handsome Dan, once famous as the Elis mascot and whose memory is kept fresh by medium of sundry pictures and carvings in college buildings. Since the death of Handsome Dan there has been no official mascot, but "Dougford Peter" may acquire fame as he follows the rowing fortunes of the Blue.

The dog was sent from London and arrived here a few days ago. He will go to training quarters in June with the crew.

Whitney rowed in the crew, but was compelled to give up in his junior year because of illness.

ST. XAVIER HIGH FIVE BEATS COLUMBIA TEAM

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—St. Xavier High School of Louisville, Ky., winner of the 1926 national Catholic basketball championship, defeated Columbia High of Dubuque, Ia., 26 to 14, in the final game of the first round for the 1928 honors today.

GIRL STUDENT CLAIMS BASKETBALL RECORD

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Any girl who wishes to be considered the best at throwing a basketball must cage more than 60 straight. The new record holder for free throws is Miss Ellen Baird of West Tennessee State Teachers' College.

CONN. TEAM DRAWS BYE IN CINCINNATI TOURNEY

Cincinnati, March 23 (INS)—Detroit, Burlington, Ia., and Aurora, Ill., were the winning teams here this morning in the close of the first round of the international Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament.

Winsted, Ct., is the only team not seen in action during the first round as it drew a bye.

PLAY FOR NATIONAL TENNIS TITLE

LOCAL PLAYERS QUALIFY FOR THE FINALS IN THE NATIONAL Indoor women's single tennis championship when Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard of Cambridge meets Miss Edith Sigourney of Back Bay tomorrow afternoon at the Longwood Covered Courts. Mrs. Hubbard disposed of Mrs. A. H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield in the semifinal round 3-6, 6-4, 10-8. In the same round Miss Sigourney defeated Miss Margaret Blake 6-1, 2-6, 6-4. In this picture Mrs. Hubbard is at left and Miss Sigourney right.

MRS. BREMER AND PARTNER IN FINALS

The Mrs. J. L. Bremer and Mrs. W. M. Shedden team will be one of the finalists in the women's indoor national doubles tennis championship tomorrow by virtue of their victory over Mrs. Alfred Chapin and Mrs. H. R. Gold today. The match was a three-set affair that started with Chapin out in front. The scores of the match were 7-5, 7-9, 6-2.

After winning the first set the Bremer-Shedden combination found their opponents putting a speedy game. [illegible] Chapin-Gold team was the big factor that won them the second set in 9-7.

All four players showed the effects of the [illegible] returning to the court for the third and deciding set, but the more experienced team of Bremer and Shedden had enough stamina to win the third set easily, 6-2.

It was by far the finest brand of tennis offered in this week, and if the play of this combination is any criterion brilliant tennis will be in order when the finals of the singles and doubles are played tomorrow.

Johnson to Leave Hospital Soon

Jacksonville, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Walter Johnson, confined to a hospital here aside from a slight intestinal infection, is in good shape physically, hospital attaches said today.

Johnson probably will be discharged in the next few days and sent to his home at Daytona Beach for three or four weeks' complete rest. Hospital physicians have said he could even now be discharged and pursue an ordinary quiet life, but that he was being watched closely so that there would be no chance of the infection becoming serious.

The infection followed a recent case of influenza.

PENN BOXING BODY WILL SUSPEND TOM KIRBY

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 23—Tom Kirby, Boston light heavyweight, will be given an indefinite suspension at next Wednesday's session of the Pennsylvania State boxing commission. Kirby failed to put in an appearance in this city Tuesday night when he was scheduled to fight Billy Vidabeck, Bayonne, N. J., notifying the club officials that he was ill.

Bunioneers Arrive at New Mexico Line

The interstate heel and toe artists having conquered California and Arizona highways, with 686 miles behind them, turned to New Mexico and its adventures today.

Out of 199 starters from Los Angeles on March 4, 9[illegible] bronzed athletes who battled coast fogs, desert heat, mountain heights and chilly blasts remained, and in each a [illegible] confidence that he would be one of the 10 that will share a total of $48,500 in prize money when the transcontinental caravan reaches New York.

Nester Erickson, Port Chester, N. Y., Finn, was favored to battle Arne Souminen, his countryman from Detroit, to be the first into the 21st control at Gallup, 26 miles from the Thursday night encampment at Lupton, Ariz. Erickson eased off for a spring over the short course Thursday by finishing the Navajo-Lupton jaunt, 34.2 miles, 47[illegible] slow time of 5:43:45.

Souminen was fifth Thursday in 5:45:15; elapsed time 118:56, finishing [illegible] 3 hours 1 minute 47 seconds lead over Andrew Payne of Claremore, Okla., who retained second place.

N. Y. Board Takes No Action on Tunney

New York, March 23 (AP)—The New York State Athletic commission today upset expectations by failing to act on the status of Gene Tunney, who has ignored the commission's request to select a opponent from the commission's list of challengers for a title match this year.

E. H. S. Football Over

After six weeks of indoor football practice the English athletes have abandoned gridiron practice until next fall. Coach Daley says that there is a scarcity of backfield material. Two teams were chosen as a result of the six weeks practice and these boys will undoubtedly form the first squad when practice begins next fall.

Yale Swimmers Make More New World Records

New Haven, March 2[illegible]—Yale varsity swimmers lowered world and intercollegiate teams records for 400, 500 and 800 yards, and Yale holds every record from the 200 yard to the mile.

Congratulations poured in upon Coach Robert J. Kiphuth, who in addition to developing the Yale record-breakers has coached the Princeton swimming team since the departure of its coach three weeks ago.

The swimming relay team consisting of Hutchinson, Sanford, Howland and Capt. Jimmy House lowered the 400-yard record, world and intercollegiate, from 3 minutes, 39 3-10 seconds, which was made by the University of Michigan team two weeks ago, to 3 minutes, 39 [illegible] seconds.

BRAVES OPEN FOUR GAME SERIES WITH ATHLETICS

By NICK FLATLEY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23—Connie Mack and his Athletics arrived in the village today to play the first of a four-game series with the Flying Braves. Cornelius once more believes he has a real pennant club and he will toss the best he has at the Tribe.

The Slatterys have won four out of five from the Yankees, the Philadelphia contenders would like to knock off the Boston entry to get a spring bulge on the National champions.

Licking the Braves these days is no part of a soft assignment, however, and the club is fairly riding into form that [illegible]

Nick Flatley

[illegible] of his youngest pitchers.

The big hitters could do nothing whatever with the Braves regulars and the Yanks have been baseballing long enough to have their punch pretty well prepared. Miller Huggins, the [illegible] manager of the Yanks, thinks highly of the Braves, which is natural enough.

BRAVES IMPRESS HUG

"I have never seen a club in the south that held more possibilities," yodels Miller.

"We have been beaten before by the Braves, but not in the one-sided way that this series went along. Slattery gave us one break, but apart from that we never had a chance. All his pitchers were mighty good except the youngsters, and his players hit that ball, especially in the pinches, against the best we had ready.

"Looks to me like [illegible] Braves have [illegible] a great [illegible] and a bench [illegible] step in [illegible] hitters. We saw [illegible] in the five [illegible] we'd [illegible] the season this year.

FULLER SAYS HE WILL KAYO CHICK SUGGS

The undivided attention of the New England sporting public is now directed toward next Monday night, when Sammy Fuller, North End [illegible], will defend his New England featherweight championship against Chick Suggs of New Bedford at the Arena.

[illegible] Lumiansky, [illegible] of Suggs, has been raving and ranting for months about Fuller, and [illegible] from the stump that Fuller is afraid of his colored veteran. Fuller has just gritted his teeth and waited for the day when he would be able to meet Suggs. Now he is in the best fighting condition of his career. Down to 126 pounds, he electrified the crowd at Toland's gym with his exhibition of speed.

At the conclusion of the workout, he unburdened himself fully on the subject of Suggs.

"I've let Lumiansky and Suggs do all the talking for months," said Fuller, "because I can do more with my fists than either of them can with their tongues. [illegible] they have done so much talking about me [illegible] that Suggs is [illegible] fighter I have ever [illegible]."

"Suggs is fast," [illegible] Fuller, "so fast that he [illegible] dirty work. The bout will be preceded by one of the most brilliant preliminary [illegible] ever arranged. Most of the men who are to appear in the eight-rounders are main bout stars, like Tickle Donohue, who is to box Murray Layton; Johnny Drew, who [illegible] to tackle the hard-hitting Newport Johnny Brown, and Bob [illegible] who is to be paired with Jimmy Amato [illegible] in a return match.

Jack Quinn 25 Years in Major Leagues

By FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A BOZO must dip very deep into the pickle vats of history to dig up a case remotely approaching that of Jack Quinn, the weather-beaten right-hander who just now is tuning up for his 25th year on the mound.

There are instances of where men have flung [illegible] in one circuit or another for a quarter of a century, but it would seem that Quinn is perhaps the only one that went into his 25th season wearing the BIG LEAGUE uniform.

[illegible]

Yet here he is [illegible]

[illegible] Big Leagues.

[illegible]

QUITE a career, this career of Jack Quinn's, who started baseballing at 18 and is still up and at 'em at the age of 43; a man who is turning back stars of the diamond [illegible] the "ol' apple."

Here's a summary of Quinn's [illegible]:

1903-04-05—Pennsylvania State League
1906-07—South Atlantic
1908—Virginia
1909-10-11-12—American
1912—International
1913—National
1914-15—Federal
1916-17-18—Pacific Coast
1918 to date—American.

[illegible]

Quinn went to the International [illegible] Braves [illegible]

[illegible]

THE White Sox grabbed Quinn and [illegible] for service in the fading weeks of 1918. [illegible] Yankees [illegible] to the Yanks, but not until he had played in six games for the White Sox.

Quinn was with New York during 1919, 1920 and 1921. Then he went to the Red Sox for three full years, [illegible] and 1924—[illegible]

[illegible]

"What's the secret of success?" [illegible] a rookie reporter once asked Quinn.

"Put it where they can't murder it," he answered—an answer which really can serve many youthful pitchers in the way of paternal advice.

ANOTHER SHOT FOR SHARKEY

Jalk Will Get Tunney Bout If He Stops Delaney In New New York April 30

By JACK CONWAY

JACK SHARKEY will receive another opportunity to punch his way into a title shot with Gene Tunney when he battles Jack Delaney under the direction of Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden, New York, on April 30.

In the event Sharkey knocks out Delaney, Rickard will sign the Boston contender to swap blows with Tunney at the Yankee Stadium in July.

Jack Conway

Rickard considers Sharkey more colorful than Tom Heeney or Johnny Risko. He is pulling for him to stop Delaney, as he realizes that such a happening would give him a contender who would draw a million dollar gate with Tunney.

The New York Boxing Commission recently named Sharkey, Heeney and Risko as the three challengers from whom Tunney would have to pick his next opponent.

Heeney is on the high seas bound for England. Before sailing from New York, he declared he would not sign to meet anybody but Tunney. He refused to consider a further elimination match with Johnny Risko who recently was awarded the decision over Sharkey.

Risko went back to Cleveland following his win over Sharkey. The India Rubber Man is willing to battle Heeney or anybody else who blocks his path to a championship tussle with Tunney.

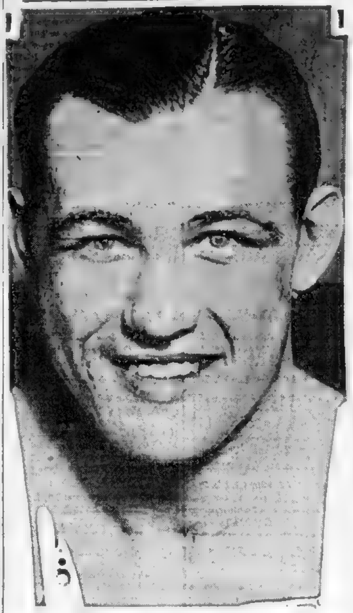
JOHNNY BUCKLEY, Sharkey's manager, has been called to New York by Jess MacMahon, Rickard's matchmaker, to arrange the details for the Sharkey-Delaney bout.

Joe Jacobs, Delaney's pilot, will sit in at the conference which will be held at Madison Square Garden tomorrow morning.

Buckley and Jacobs have already agreed with MacMahon that April 30 shall be the date for the contest. The division of the purse and the distance of the bout are all that have to be decided.

Sharkey is at his home in Chestnut Hill. He was elated when Buckley informed him he was going to receive another chance to punch his way to the Tunney bout.

STILL IN THE MONEY



A POSSIBLE SHOT AT TUNNEY

For the world's title is before Jack Sharkey if he can knock out Jack Delaney in the bout in the New Garden, New York, April 30. This is the bout that stands between Jack and an added fortune. But the smile on Sharkey's face here indicates that he is confident of sending the Rapier of the North south.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Johnnie Farrell, the Massachusetts open champion, who broke the open tournament record by four strokes when he eased around La Gorce in 274 blows, expects to make a tour of the New England States this season. Johnnie was around here for a couple of weeks last year and his quality of golf and his personality won him a host of friends.

Although Walter Hagen, the American champion, has played no golf this winter, he expects to be his best when he meets Archie Compston just prior to the British open. The "Haig" has devoted most of his time this winter attempting to regain possession of the $20,000 he put down as a binder to buy the Rochester, N. Y., ball club. As Hagen has been playing the game without a let up for years, the rest will work out to his advantage.

Now that Hugh Gordon has decided to pass up the Framingham Country Club berth for one at Bretton Woods, the fight for Charlie Nicoll's old job is on again. There are some rumors that John Keenan has been approached to accept the Framingham professional berth, but the former Andover Country Club pro has his plans all made for his outdoor school and therefore it is doubtful if he will accept.

Even at this early date, the members of the Southern district team of the W. G. A. are hoping that the weather man will be in a more genial mood than he was a year ago, when they opened the season at Wollaston against Brae Burn. Again Southern opens at the Montclair course, playing Central, and if offered some real weather this match will produce some fine golf.

Although the $5133.33 purse was not hard for Johnnie Farrell to take he would willingly put it back if the return of that purse would assure him that he would have all his clubs working as effectively as they did at La Gorce. Johnnie was in a putting slump during the open at Oakmont last season and did not get in the money. Judging from the article of golf he has been playing this winter, Farrell will be one of the big favorites in this year's United States open.

Unless Mrs. W. P. Hosmer forsakes her present plans, which call for her retirement from active golf this season, the W. G. A. and the women players at Woodland are going to lose one of the hardest working women in the organization. Mrs. Hosmer is mainly responsible for the Woodland Golf Club letting down its gates to women players, and her retirement is most regretable.

SPEEDY BRAVES TACKLE MACKS IN OPENER

to figure in the National League race."

HUG'S FINE BOOST

Miller isn't a national chatterer and he doesn't enjoy getting licked any more than the next one, but he forgot his usual habits and was enthusiastic, for him, about the Braves. So are the Braves, enthusiastic, we mean and that will not hurt the club a bit when it gets north and down to real business.

All the players are figuring these days, because they're sure they will be in the money. The club won 64 ball games last season, and the boys have it doped out that they can grab off at least 20 more wins this year. That would mean 84 victories and 70 losses, a record good enough to win third place almost any year.

The squad realizes that fighting might mean glory and extra money and that can't help keeping alive a spirit that will surprise Boston fans once the team gets going on the native pasture. Manager Slattery has killed any chance of overconfidence and is taking care to keep his heroes cocky. As the days drift by Jack shapes up as one of the best psychologists in the well known pastime.

Kent Greenfield and Bobby Smith did the sharpshooting in the final Yank fray, and they gave the American Leaguers plenty to look at. The champs made two runs, both homers, off Greeny, one by Combs on the first ball pitched, the other by Lazzeri in the fifth frame. But those two blows were the only ones made off Kent, who pitched like a genius all the rest of the way.

TRIBE HAS STEADY INFIELD

Bob Smith whizzed through the final four frames and was discovered for only two singles. The Braves did a lot of fine fielding, Burrus and Farrell showing the way. With Burrus playing better than he has in three years and Bell parked on third, the Tribal infield looks like one of the very best defensive combinations in the game today.

Bells is fast and owns a fine arm and will start many a double with Hornsby as pivot man. Rogers is one of the best the game has ever known in the matter of quick and accurate throws to first, and this sticks out as the big boy is gradually rounding into form. Farrell is now a finished shortstop and getting the combine stuff down pat with Rogers.

Some of the veteran Braves are going so far as to say that their infield is the best in the league, when the joint factors of hitting and fielding are concerned. That may be going a bit far but the argument is sound logical. Burrus, in good form, and he's sure headed for it, will field as well as anybody and hit a few points better.

BELL GREAT ON THIRD

Hornsby, in normal trim, will outbat any second baseman and field as well if not better than Frisch, his only grounder grabbing rival. Farrell may be outbatted by Wright of the Pirates, but will be steadier in the field and has a chance to go wild with the war club.

Bell's sole rival, the boys claim, is Pie Traynor. The rest of the field is nowhere. If Lester has one of the 1926 years, Pie will have to be at his best.

In the championship riffle, the former Cardinal had a slight edge on the great Pirate.

When players get disputing things like that, you may bet your bottom bond that they think they belong to a real ball club. When the athletes harbor that notion sincerely, they generally step out and win a lot of ball games. Spring is always an optimistic section of the year, but this time there seems to be real basis for the optimism.

King Cup Racers To Visit Marblehead

New York, March 23 (AP)—The rendezvous of the 1928 cruise of the New York Yacht Club will be made at New London on August 9 with the King's cup, the blue ribbon event of American yacht racing, held on August 20, the New York Yacht Club has announced.

The race for the King's cup will be sailed off Brenton reef. The event for the Astor cups will be run off Newport on August 11.

The itinerary for the cruise this year will send the fleet "around the cape" to Marblehead, which will be the first time the famous old port of Marblehead will be visited since 1922, when former Commodore Harold Vanderbilt led the water march with his schooner Vagrant.

Gallery for Compston-Hagen Match Limited

London, March 23 (AP)—Something new in golf matches—limited galleries so as not to interfere with play—is planned for the big professional match play championship which Walter Hagen and Archie Compston, long-hitting British star, will play shortly.

Announcement was made today that the contest will be held at Moor Park, April 27 and 28.

The number of spectators will be limited to 1500 daily and they will be charged 10 shillings each entrance or 15 shillings for the two days. This is the biggest price ever charged in Britain for a match.

Simonich Beats Cappo

Kansas City, March 23 (AP)—Joe Simonich, Butte, Mont., welterweight, won in ten rounds tonight from Larry Cappo, Kansas City.

TWO POPULAR PLAYERS IN THE DAVIS CUP

Tennis tests now being held at Augusta, Ga., are W. F. Coen and Bill Tilden. Coen, left, defeated Arnold Jones of Providence in a five-set match and Jones in the sixth ranking player of the country. Tilden also had to go five sets to beat George Lott of Chicago.

POOR DECISION BEATS CECCOLI

Sid Barbania was awarded the decision over Johnny Ceccoli after 10 hard rounds of fighting at an Argonne A. A. show at Mechanics Building. The decision didn't meet with the approval of many of the fans who believed that Ceccoli's cleaner punching entitled him to the decision.

The tussle was jammed with action. Neither boxer took a backward step from the time festivities started until the final blow was delivered. It was the opinion of this writer that Ceccoli had the margin.

Barbarian was guilty of some rough house tactics. In the eighth round Ceccoli was shoved part way through the ropes. In the ninth Referee Johnny Brassil warned Barbarian for low punching.

In the final session, the rival sons of sock stood toe to toe and traded blows with a reckless abandon.

In the semi-final, Ted [illegible] of Germany knocked out [illegible] Callahan of Arlington in eight rounds. A towel from Callahan's corner brought the mill to an end.

Nandi Tassi, who was carded to box Sandwina, was among the missing, and was suspended by the Boxing Commission for running out of the match.

Al Bouresguard of New Haven won in four rounds from Mickey Conley of Ireland.

Bill Franklin of New Rochelle outscored John Carlton of Cambridge in another four-rounder.

Marty [illegible] of New York won the decision from Jimmy [illegible] of Boston after a lively fuor-session mill.

Jake Zuramby, a sparkling youngster from Lynn, stopped Tony Selnick of the West End in three rounds, while Owen Flynn of South Boston outpointed Paul Weinheim in four chapters.

INVITE MARSHALL TO PLAY CHESS ABROAD

Frank J. Marshall, champion of the United States, received an invitation from Siegbert Tarrasch of Munich in behalf of the congress of the Bavarian Chess Association, which will hold its annual meeting at Kissingen, a famous health resort, during August.

Mr. Marshall will go abroad if he can arrange his affairs to permit of a sufficient leave of absence.

Akiba Rubinstein, Polish champion, who returned yesterday from the West, also received an invitation, as well as Jose R. Capablanca of Havana.

Delegates to Hear Okeson's Plan

Washington, Pa., March 23—Football rulemakers and coaches of 12 colleges in Western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia have accepted invitations sent out by graduate Manager William G. Theurer of Washington and Jefferson, to meet Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh, new commissioner for the selection of football game officials in the Eastern area, at a conference and banquet at Pittsburgh this afternoon and evening.

WILLIAMS TRACK STAR, ILL, MAY NOT COMPETE

Williamstown, Mass., March 23—[illegible] T. S. Keep, [illegible], of Lake George, N. Y., Williams track captain and star quarter-miler, may be lost to the team this spring because of illness. He was unable to compete with the Purple relay team because of sinus trouble, and has been in New York for treatment for the past month.

Richard W. Lisle, 29, of Providence, has been elected captain of the Williams wrestling team.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

MR. BOSTON had plenty of callers today. Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, was first to breeze into the sporting department.

"Am on my way to New York to sign Sharkey to fight Delaney on April 30," said Buckley as he parked his suitcase on Mr. Boston's desk. "Got a hurry call from Jack MacMahon, Tex Rickard's matchmaker, to hop over to Broadway to arrange terms for a Sharkey-Delaney mixup.

"The Hudkins-Dundee world's welterweight championship bout has been put back indefinitely to make way for Sharkey and Delaney. April 30 is one of the choice dates at the Garden. It is the first boxing show billed following the circus, which will run for three weeks.

"Sharkey is still very much in the running for a title shot at Tunney. He heads the list of challengers, with Heeney and Risko also on the job. If Sharkey knocks out Delaney, he will also knock Risko and Heeney out of any chance they may have of getting a crack at the champion. In the event Sharkey can flatten Delaney, Rickard's worries will be over. He will be able to match Sharkey and Tunney and sit back and watch the show draw close to $2,000,000.

"Risko and Heeney lack color. Neither of these heavyweights would draw a million dollar gate if pitted against Tunney. Sharkey and Delaney both have color. And Rickard must have a colorful fighter in there with Tunney if he is to escape financial ruin."

AS Buckley paraded in the general direction of the [illegible] Jim MacDonald and Al Schooner, latest sensation among the heavyweights, hit the desk.

"I want you to mitt a fighter who can fight," piped MacDonald. "At Lewiston the other night Schooner, in his seventh professional fight, almost knocked out Jack Humbeck. He had the Belgian bleeding from the nose and mouth and in bad shape when a low blow ended the tussle in the eighth round.

"Tommy Burns thought he was making a soft touch when he signed Humbeck to tackle Schooner at Lewiston. It was the first time Al had been in a bout of more than four rounds.

"Schooner stood up like a veteran and had Humbeck backing away most of the time. Al is a mixture of Irish and Indian like Dempsey. He is a fine boxer with a good left hand, while he knocks them dead with his right. He is the best looking heavyweight prospect I have seen in years.

"I have Schooner in with Larry Creighton at New Bedford on Monday night. After Al knocks Creighton over, he will do as much for Eddie Callahan. After he has had a little more experience, Schooner will be ready to step in with the best of them."

"DON'T forget to say something about Sammy Fuller," opened Rip Valenti as he stepped into the picture. "Fuller will be at his best when he clashes with Chick Suggs at the Arena on Monday night. Sammy's title as New England featherweight champion will be at stake as he is making 126 pounds for the match.

"Fuller has come down to the weight easily and will knock Suggs over. Sammy is burned up by the way Dave Lumiansky has been hounding him. He says he will knock Suggs right into the [illegible] manager's lap.

"Fuller has the sparkle, class and punch to make a champion. After Fuller knocks Suggs over, he'll be ready for Tony Canzoneri, Benny Bass, Red Chapman or any of the other legitimate featherweights."

One of the office boys ended Rip's broadcast with a request for a couple of admission tickets to the title scrap.

"If Fuller is as good as all that, I'd like to see him," piped the office boy.

"Sammy will send you down a couple of tickets," replied Rip. "You know Fuller has a big place in his heart for youngsters. He got his start as a bootblack on the streets of the old North End. He's an idol with the youngsters because he has always kept in close contact with them."

FT. WAYNE FIVE EVENS COUNT WITH CELTICS

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 23 (AP)—The Fort Wayne basketball team, champions of the Western Division of the American Basketball League, tonight defeated the New York Celtics, champions of the Eastern Division, 28 to 21, in the second game of a five-game series to decide the league championship. The New York team won last night' contest, necessitating a third game tomorrow night to decide the championship.

C. C. N. Y. RIFLE TEAM LEAVES FOR HUB SHOOT

New York, March 23—The City College rifle team will travel to Boston today to participate in the national intercollegiate rifle tourney tomorrow and, according to past performances, is expected to bring home the championship.

The C. C. N. Y. team, with five victories and no defeats in matches this season, is leading the Eastern Intercollegiate Rifle League for the Eastern championship.

The Cost of America's Discovery

THE discovery of America, it seems, cost about $2500 all told. Christopher Columbus himself got only about $2000 at the time. He received about $300 a year as admiral of the fleet, and his expedition lasted from August 3, 1492, to March, 1493.

Martha Lee's Radio Chat About Eggs for the Main Dish

The Martha Lee radio chat as broadcast from Station WLOE.

IF YOU ha[illegible] following the market reports [illegible] of your local [illegible] know the eggs had a considerable drop in price within the last few weeks. It is because our feathery friend, the hen, has completed her rest period and is now ready to work [illegible] [illegible] plentiful, and [illegible] best [illegible]

[illegible] fresh eggs [illegible] of [illegible] and they [illegible] more than just [illegible] They are real food.

I had the pleasure of listening to a prominent food chemist talk to a group of Chicago people. He commented on the fact that [illegible] has advised [illegible] to serve [illegible] eggs and egg desserts [illegible] during the next few [illegible]

Doctors realize that egg is more than a food that will satisfy hunger. The white of an egg is high in albumen, a protein food that builds tissue, while the yolk carries a relatively high precentage of fat, protein and minerals, especially iron.

Another element that is necessary to proper health and growth, development is the vitamin, and egg is rich in both vitamins A and B, which makes it particularly valuable food for the growing child. There are many methods of preparing eggs other than that cooked [illegible] appear at the table for the breakfast meal. Appetizing egg dishes attractively [illegible] quite acceptable at luncheon and dinner.

The following recipes will assist you in keeping [illegible]

EGGS VALENCIENNES—4 eggs [illegible] 4 tbsp. grated cheese, 1 tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. white pepper [illegible]

[illegible] and rice and [illegible] grated cheese [illegible] Add [illegible] salt, pepper and nutmeg. Butter [illegible] with a little melted butter and make a border of the rice, tomatoes and cheese. In the center break the eggs. Season, place in a hot oven for four or five minutes or until eggs are done. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

RAGOUT OF EGGS—6 hard cooked eggs, 2 cupfuls mushrooms, 3 tbsps. butter, 1 tbsp. flour, ½ cupful milk, salt, paprika, lemon juice.

Melt the butter and add the mushrooms cut in small pieces and saute them carefully. Moisten the flour in a little of the cold milk, add to the mushrooms and stir well. When well mixed, add the remaining milk, lemon juice, salt and paprika. Simmer until the mixture thickens.

Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise removing the yolks. Place the whites on a hot platter hollow side up. Fill the centers with the mushroom mixture. Place the remaining [illegible] around the eggs. Put yolks through a sieve and sprinkle them evenly over the mixture [illegible] with parsley and serve at once.

EGG AND FISH LOAF—3 hard cooked eggs, 1 cupful cooked fish flaked, 1 cupful cold boiled rice, 1 tsp. [illegible] salt and paprika to taste, milk to moisten.

Grease a baking mold. Slice one of the eggs in thin rings and place around the side of the mold for a garnish. Press the fish mixture into the mold and bake for 30 minutes. Turn out on a hot platter and serve with tomato sauce.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

You can't mistake it—that real Boston Baked Bean flavor. You enjoy it in every delicious taste of Heinz Oven-Baked Beans, Boston Style.

Heinz uses the tender little pea beans you like best—then a big helping of choice pork—then plenty of molasses. Into the ovens they go—and when they come out they are all brown and good and juicy with rich sauce.

No wonder they're good—no wonder New England folks say, "The Boston Flavor is here."

"You Said It, Marceline"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

SOME girls still think they want CAVE MEN! Well, if a woman wants a cave man she does not want him for any GOOD REASON. It must be just for an EXCUSE to see what one looks like, for the breed seems to be rapidly DYING out. Not that it really MATTERS. Like other dogs, they have had their DAY. And WHAT a day! Some still keep talking about it. By the time of [illegible] it is ALL they can do.

Recently [illegible] a great ACT [illegible] they [illegible] to STRUT about in the world with a [illegible] GESTURE [illegible] complete DOWNFALL of women! How women ever got OUT [illegible] was as ATTRACTIVE [illegible] must be a RIDDLE [illegible] of these [illegible] HARD to [illegible] ever seems to CHANGE [illegible] until [illegible] WEARY [illegible]

The position of WOMEN today is extraordinary. They are literally standing UPRIGHT on their own two little feet, taking what they WANT from life, and PAYING as they go. Paying a big PRICE? Why YES, but not TOO big for the experience they are getting. A man [illegible] THRILL, certainly, but he is not the ONLY thrill, or all there is.

Anyone who has lived with a man knows that ALL men have their OFF moments, and when they are off they are VERY off—most of them.

The MODERN man though he does not know it, is a progression on the CAVE man. He is superior. A finer MODEL. More constructive.

All cave men were SELFISH. All cave men were EGOTISTS. Many were quite CHARMING socially, but in private ruthless and narrow-minded. This is how they kept their women QUIET. They alternately LOVED them and FRIGHTENED them. Today, men neither LOVE women as magnificently, or scare them as much. The modern man is KIND, considerate, unselfish and BROADMINDED. Few modern men, however, are APPRECIATED. And still fewer seem to EXPECT it!

Some girls STILL think they want a cave man. [illegible] BRAWN [illegible] more than BRAINS!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

1. In sending a personal or social letter, is the sender's address required?

L.

IN the case of most letters we write it is usually necessary to put our address either in the heading of the letter or at the end of the letter. But, of course, if it is just a note or letter to someone to whom we write often, someone thoroughly familiar with our address, it is, naturally, not necessary to include the address.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Should a woman going out of town for two weeks call up or see her very intimate friends or neighbors to say goodbye? Or should the friends come in for that purpose if they know just when she is leaving town?

2—In a restaurant where the waiter is present when you decide upon your order, must you give the order to the waiter or to your escort?

WHEN leaving for such a short time, a woman would not expect her friends to come to say goodbye, except perhaps the ones whom she sees very often. Life is so busy nowadays, and visits of this short duration are so usual and common, that one does not now treat them with such formality.

2—Give your order to your escort—he is your host, and will appreciate your courtesy.

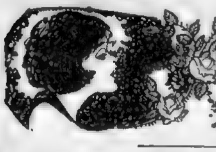
This Day in Our History

EMILIO AGUINALDO, leader of the Filipino insurrection, was captured on March 23, 1901. Aguinaldo took a leading part in the rebellion against Spain in 1896-1898, was banished, but on returning established a government with himself as head.



"Jerry" by ELENORE MEHERIN AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 46

SAXON came with an uncertain grin as though dubious of his welcome. He wore a brown suit with a faint red line and a snappy crimson tie. His eyes sparkled as though he'd been to bed early for a night or two.

"Well," thought Jerry, noting the pleasing details and excited by his sudden entrance. "What now?"

"I've landed you some good jobs," said he, the grin widening. "One here in town and a beaut in Hamilton. Here's the hop."

He pulled a little card from his pocket, laid it on the table before which she was perched on a high, rickety stool.

He did all this with a great briskness like a small boy rushing in with glib chatter and a fist full of flowers to cover up the breaking of the neighbor's window. Oh, nobody'd be mean enough to notice that!

"Do you get a commission for the jobs you land on your own?"

"I've been promised it. I've only been here two months."

He looked over her shoulder at the sketch of a lovely interior—a living room and hall. "It's a pity to waste your gift on stuff like this. Your coloring is awfully good, Jerry. Do you think you'll stay on at this?"

"Yes. There's a great fascination in it. And if you keep landing me heavenly jobs, I'll be wealthy."

"There's no particular reason why I shouldn't be interested in you, is there?"

A sudden darkening of his eyes as they took courage and glanced with faint hostility to hers: "Any reason why we shouldn't be good friends, Jerry?"

"None that I know. Didn't I just remark that you were a golden asset? Besides," with a quick rippling laugh, and recalling the bitter, contemptuous names she had flung at him—cocky cavalier, Don Juan in rompers—"Besides, you're a big boy, and I like you very much."

This was unexpected and brought a flush to his cheeks. He counted on reproaches and a hurt attitude. Or at best a silent contempt.

He was a little nonplused: "Then you're not angry with me?"

"No. Not at all."

There Was Something Subtly Derisive in Her Bantering

"But you were. I feel awfully—"

He hesitated and she broke in with an impish: "I know—you feel awfully caught!"

There was something subtly derisive in her banter as though his infidelity were of no consequence. Much more flattering to have incited her furious anger.

He wouldn't believe that she didn't care.

"You were furious the other night. You handed me a filthy line."

She swung round on the stool and with an engaging twinkle puffed smoke in his face. "Yes. You see, it was this way. I was young and innocent. And in my tender youth which mercifully has vanished, I idealized you. A sun-god with the mirth and breeze of all outdoors about you. A he-man from the great open spaces.

"I saw you head and shoulders above the common herd. One writing his name on the stars. One who couldn't be swayed or sunk.

"And it got me all at once to see you going the way of all flesh: gamboling on the green with that captivating young ox lying in your arms."

"That's going a bit strong, isn't it?"

She ignored him with a bland smile: "Another thing that got me was that you tried to slip it over on me. And without necessity. You insulted my great intelligence telling me I was the only one and then allowing me to find you with another one. Very poor technique!"

He grew uncomfortably red and wished to defend himself. He was in a difficult and unfair position. For he had meant the things he said to her. She WAS the only girl he ever loved. And he DIDN'T expect to love in the same way again. That's all he told her. It was the truth.

Of course, he had liked saying it in that intimate, provincial way, had enjoyed bringing the fervor to her warm, sweet eyes, looking down at her and caressing her with a glance. Aware and exultant in his power to bring her lips trembling and eager to his. A delicious game!

He couldn't tell Jerry this.

With an illuminating flash more surprising to herself than to him, she took the thought from his mind.

"But I've sized it all up and I've got the straight of it. I see you as you are. And to understand is to condone. The sun-god is playing school with the lounge-lizards.

'They're Some Exciting Games; Making Love Is One of Them'

"They've some very exciting games. Making love is one of them. I see the lure of that. Brings a throb to the heart to try one's power over another.

"Only remember this, Saxon, the woman doesn't live who plays a clean, straight hand at that game. They've all a trump card up their sleeves. And sooner or later they bring it down. When they play—you pay!

"It's Lohengrin and going-grin for you!"

"Not I! The survival of marriage proves the blind stupidity or the insane optimism of the race. Take that party the other night—fourteen girls all under 25. Eight of them married and divorced. And they started out with the same fool delusion—marry and be happy ever afterwards! It doesn't work! And I don't fall for it."

"So all the benedicts of the world have boasted. But nearly every man dies married."

"Watch out, ole dear. Seeing that I'm not going to wed you myself, I warn you that all other women are in a conspiracy to nab you. And they're all WORTHLESS!"

"How do you know you're not going to marry me?"

"Well, I've got to be about God's business at present, which is to make a worthwhile person out of one Jerry King. And to pay the family bills, which are large."

"You don't care for me any more, Jerry?"

"Oh vanity. Yes, I care. Enough to give me a broken heart when I see your hair getting thin at the temples. But that's the great little mama in me, I suppose. Want to keep you sweet and pure like you never were, perhaps!"

Lavender eyes soft against the blue-black hair, arms wound about her hunched knees. Slim, woodland sprite posed for a brief rest. Like this she sat above him that dewy morning on the beach. Like this she had turned with delicious kid sweetness and asked him poignantly to judge her worth.

"Don't you love me, Jerry?"

"He can't help playing the game," thought she with hot unhappiness, "even when he knows a person's heart is his."

She answered after a long musing. "Love. For a girl that means to be on your knees. To be looking up. To be worshipping. The woman doesn't live who truly loves a man that she doesn't look up to. She may have a humorous affection for him or a nice, comfortable middle-aged tolerance, or a half-motherly tenderness. But real, bone-deep mate-love can't exist for woman when she no longer looks up to her man."

She turned about quickly and gathered up her sketches. She had said too much. She was always saying irrevocable things! Making the barrier impassable—making it seem like that.

He colored hotly: "I've fallen quite low in your opinion! You think I drink and chase and am an all-around rotter!"

She was dismayed at the sudden unpleasant turn. She turned eagerly and came shrugging up and tucked a hand in his arm: "No, I don't. Don't think that at all. Quit gnashing your teeth and acting Romeo! And don't get sore because a sap of a schoolgirl clapped a halo on your head and doesn't think you're wearing it quite straight.

"Were you planning on driving me home? I'm in a hurry."

She thought: "He's having his fling. Same as I would! As I may! Being he, it can't last long. He can't fall for that shabby stuff for very very long!"

How deep he was enmeshed in this shabby stuff she learned to her dismay a few weeks later.

What Do Women Want? -:- -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

DON'T IMITATE THE WEAKNESSES OF MEN

THEN, SOME DAY, YOU WILL FIND TRUE LOVE

By Beatrice Fairfax,
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

PEGGY was invited to tea on a liner, along with a group of girls and young men of her "crowd." She was greatly thrilled at the prospect, which included meeting the good-looking ship officers. The best looking man of all, the young first officer, was especially attentive. He did not even disapprove when Peggy, who did not keep up with her "crowd" in these matters, refused cigarettes, took tea but not cocktails, and showed a disposition to chatter and "cut up," but not to neck in dim corners.

Peggy and the first officer were married a year later.

"I respected you from the moment we met," her husband confessed to her. "I loved you and felt I could trust you. We meet so many of the other kind of women at every port. You seemed too good to be true.

"When I returned from my first voyage after our honeymoon I was almost afraid our little home nest would have vanished like a dream. But no—it was there—sweeter than ever. You had not changed."

Peggy has not always been happy in her marriage. There have been ups and downs. But if she can keep as winsome and lovable as in courtship days love, respect and admiration for her will be sufficient anchor for her husband's heart.

Respect and admiration always accompany true love. Without them love is impossible.

"What do modern woman want?" I heard a famous writer ask. "They imitate all the faults and weaknesses of men, even going them one better. They scoff at the idea of being looked up to. Yet in the next breath they are insulted if men do not accord them chivalrous consideration and admiration. They ask the impossible!"

If you chose to imbibe freely from the hip flask, to smoke from morning till night, to swear and swagger, to laugh at the thought of delicacy or reserve in conversation and conduct, well and good. But do not expect that the man of your choice will love you for those qualities or choose you as a desirable helpmate and mother of his children.

Dr. Dorsey on 'Why We Behave Like Human Beings'

...ng hay, eating spaghetti, chewing tobacco, going to church—is at bottom like any other form of learning. Learning to play the piano or checkers, to read Greek or talk [illegible], to solve puzzles or problems in higher mathematics involves no new principles not used in learning to walk or in forming the habit of rushing to the window every time the fire engine snorts by.

Most men shave themselves, but go to the barber shop for a hair cut. It was not always thus, nor is it thus in all lands. Custom. Custom also is habit. Our repertoire of habits is conditioned by the company we keep. It is not immoral to eat with a knife, or a vice to drink tea from a saucer, but men are socially executed for less.

TAKE shaving. I move from F[illegible] to Main st. with a normal face of hair. Decide to shave in sheer self-defense. Do not like the idea—emotionally wrought up. Two things follow: I am not likely to forget that shave; if I am not too excited I will be able to give it the best I have. Law number one of learning: emotional reinforcement; the reflex arcs are keyed up for new experience. I may so dislike the idea of shaving that my emotion takes a real fighting mood—the reflex arcs are keyed up to resist.

Not having the shaving habit or habituated to razor sharpness, I cut myself. More emotion. Never will forget that shave. Nor am I likely to forget the [illegible] resulted in a cut. Second law: attention or vividness. Learning to shave is learning to confine the razor edge to the surface of the face. Old school of hard knocks. If the cut were serious, my learning to shave might end with the first lesson. Many boys stop with one lesson on a pipe.

[illegible] And it is finally all off. Shave again next day. Much easier this time. Suppose I [illegible] a month [illegible] too much [illegible] to forget what I had learned well enough to remember a short time. Memory of first shave and memory of movements made are different processes; different reflex arcs involved. Third law: Recency. No one learns to play the [illegible] with one lesson a week.

The fourth law follows [illegible] up; repetition. Practice makes perfect, wears paths through the nervous system.

I may begin this first shave at the age of 40. I have had no opportunity in life to form habits of action on a reflected image, nor have I formed habits of using hands for more delicate operations than digging yams. I try a half-dozen times. My face is a sight! I give it up as many men do. It is hard to teach an old dog tricks. That is why the boy beats his father at golf.

Law five: Every man has his limit. But with enough stimulus the limit can be extended. If the father had to beat his son or have his allowance cut off, he would be more likely to succeed.

Reed Tells How Artificial Sunlight Works

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU have doubtless heard much about "artificial sunlight" and its value in promoting health and curing disease. To understand what is meant by artificial sunlight, it is important to remember that a beam of white light is a bundle of rays of light of different color. These rays can be separated by an instrument called the spectroscope.

Besides the light which our eyes can see, the sun and the ultra-violet lamp both give off a large variety of rays which are not seen. We can see from red on the long side to violet on the short. Light waves longer than that are called "infra-red," and shorter than that are called "ultra-violet." It is chiefly the rays which we cannot see that have such a wonderful effect in so many diseases.

It is usual to talk about "ultra-violet" treatment, but we are assured by H. M. Oddy (Proceedings Royal Society of Medicine) that many workers on the subject are coming to doubt whether the ultra-violet rays are quite so important as they are said to be. The proportion of ultra-violet rays in sunlight is only 1 per cent; there is more in the carbon arc, and more still in the ultra-violet mercury vapor lamp. Yet the fewer the ultra-violet rays, the more effective is the light, in surgical tuberculosis at any rate.

In practically all the experiments and treatments in which a triumph was claimed for ultra-violet light, the rays actually used were mixed. It is known that pure ultra-violet rays make the blood more capable of killing bacilli, but the other rays produce other reactions. The visible [illegible] into the blood stream and supply heat to the blood. The infra-red rays are absorbed on the surface, since they cannot pass through water.

In addition to the action of the light on the skin a patient having a sun bath is exposed to cold air, and this is an important part of the treatment. This happens also in some artificial light cases, and another factor in artificial light treatment is the formation of ozone. Everyone who has seen [illegible] sun lamp work will remember the queer "garlic" smell it made; this [illegible] is very stimulating [illegible]

The stimulating effect of light is largely due to its [illegible] the white [illegible] causing them to [illegible]. It cures rickets by [illegible] in the fat of the skin a substance known as vitamin D, the absence of which is the cause of the disease, and will cure some children who have failed to make [illegible]

The best [illegible]. The lamps are [illegible], but they are only [illegible]

Always Keep Your Mental Poise

By LUCY LOWELL

"WHAT a superb thing it would be," wrote Elbert Hubbard, "if we were all big enough in mind to see no slights, accept no insults, cherish no jealousies and admit into our hearts no hatred!"

Something to think over, this is, now when the year still is new and we are, in a way, at a new beginning.

A large order—to make ourselves big enough for all the things this philosopher mentions. We would come very near to perfection were it possible.

And yet we may accomplish a beginning, we can raise our minds above the place where it always is seeing slights.

Petty, inconsequential, down-dragging things—slights. All the more annoying for being picayune—slapping at mosquitoes! He mentioned that also, did Mr. Hubbard: "Be on the lookout for the great joys and never let mosquitoes worry you into a passion."

But returning to the matter of slights—I doubt if one-tenth of these we fancy we encounter are slights at all. They may seem so at first glance, but on second thought we much more often than not can place them for what they are really—a bit of thoughtlessness or preoccupation or even forgetfulness.

Why, in the first place, should we go wandering up and down through the world considering ourselves of such great importance as to merit the ultimate in courtesy from every one we meet?

Others have their problems to consider, their thoughts to think. Why should we expect them always to be looking out lest they hurt our feelings?

And suppose, anyone deliberately offers us a slight. "The power men possess to annoy me I give them." You cannot be hurt, humiliated—[illegible] unless you allow yourself to be.

Keep your mental poise and don't bother about what someone else may do.

A Three-Minute Journey

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

THE holiest man in all Lamaism is the Tashi Lama. He is, indeed, a living god to all his followers. The Tashi Lama does not achieve his high position through competition. He is born to it. It seems that a child born on a certain day in a certain year, who exhibits certain designated signs of infantile precocity, iso destined by divine choice to be the compelling power among the monks and peasants of Tibet, for he is the reincarnation, they believe, of the god Amitabha, the heavenly Buddha.

Accordingly, from early childhood he is trained for his duties as spiritual leader of his co-religionists. The whole of his life is dedicated to them. The present Tasha Lama, who was driven from his position some time ago by his rival, the Dalai Lama, was taken from his family at the tender age of six, and brought up by the great dignitaries of his religion, who educated him for his great place in his world.

One of the times when he is seen by the public is during the festival of Losar, the New Year of Tibet. For seven days the Tibetans celebrate the triumph of Buddha over six false prophets, and the victory of the true religion over the unbelievers. Visitors and pilgrims from all over the country flock to Tashi lunpi, the most important of all the Lama monasteries. And from there the Tashi Lama watches over the ceremonies and blesses the people with his presence.

TO CLEAN GRAY FURS.

To clean gray furs, such as the regal chinchilla or the delicate gray squirrel, and those of brownish gray tone, fig dust is the best thing to use. It is procurable from corn chandlers and is used like magnesia or starch. As soon as it gets dirty a fresh application must be made. It sticks in the fur more than the other powders, and it is best to beat gently on the wrong side before shaking, to free the fur from it.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair
By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to their hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Don't Have Dark Rough, Red, Chapped Or Sallow Skin

Women who neglect their skin or through lack of proper understanding of its care, let the complexion of their youth slip from them, are more to be pitied than censured. No woman can possibly hold or acquire the true love of man if she is indifferent to her personal charms. Don't sigh for that delicate, smooth, white skin that was yours but yesterday, for these charms can be returned to you and with proper care you may again have a smooth, pink-white skin that is a pleasure to see.

All that is necessary to achieve this is to apply a little Ice-Mint to the face, hands, arms or shoulders just before retiring and then note the daily improvement in the beauty of your skin. Ice-Mint is a rich snow-white cream that contains a Japanese product that nourishes, whitens and tones up the tissues, acting as a tonic to dry, dark, rough, old or sallow skin. This rich tonic cream is unsurpassed for its beautifying properties and is used everywhere by the best beauty shops and specialists. You can get Ice-Mint at little cost from any Druggist and you will be surprised at the real beauty it brings to face, hands, arms, shoulders or wherever applied.

In Monday's issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed

Salient Points of the Bidding
MAJOR TAKE-OUT OF NO TRUMP

North properly takes out his partner's uncontested No Trump with a five-card Major suit as good as an original bid.

Salient Points of the Play
ELIMINATION OF A SUIT

Trick 4. Declarer could make a Small Slam if he knew in which direction to make the Diamond finesse, but by eliminating Clubs from both hands and then throwing an adversary in with a Heart for a forced Diamond lead, the Slam is assured.

Trick 6. North trumps with the Spade 5, which enables him to enter Dummy once more through the trump suit and eliminate the last Club.

Trick 10. East's lead is immaterial. He continues with Hearts, hoping Declarer may hold the missing one.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

The Spice of Life—Has always been found to lie in variety. This probably accounts for the variety of spicy styles that are being offered in collar treatments of the advance spring woolen coats. Flat furs, such as mole and lamb, are much in evidence, having scarf collars of the fabric. Such a scarf is usually flatly folded and joined on the front with a large galalith ring. Sports models, when not trimmed in fur, often use suede printed in colorful plaid effects.

RELIANT Upon Pliant Straws—Exclusive milliners are getting the same soft, flattering affects as they achieved in felts. These flexible lightweight straw shapes are as easy to drape to fit the head as is French felt, and surely make much cooler hats for the coming warm spring days. Black, yellowish red and green are now the favorite millinery shades in Paris interpretations of the spring mode.

NOSEDIVE, I GUESS I'M SUNK- THERE'S NO USE TRYING TO DUCK THAT GUY WITH THE SMOKED GLASSES ANY LONGER- HE'S THE SHADOW IN THE SONG, "ME AND MY SHADOW"
HE'S WORSE THAN A CARBUNCLE ON THE BACK OF YOUR NECK
BOBO, OLD PAL, I GUESS THEY'LL PUT YOU BACK IN THE IRON TENT- WHEN YOU'VE ONCE BEEN JUGGED THEY WANT YOU FOR A REGULAR MONTHLY BOARDER
DON'T FORGET TO SEND ME A PERCOLATOR- WHEN I WAS IN JAIL BEFORE THE COFFEE WAS TERRIBLE!
COME ON- HAND IT OVER- WHERE IS THE PETROL WAGON?
HE'S NOT A DETECTIVE AFTER ALL!
WELL, OF ALL THINGS!

SERIOUS BUSINESS
VAN, SKINNY AND OOFTY HAVE PLEDGED THEMSELVES TO GET EVEN WITH SHRIMP FOR RAZZING SKINNY. THEY ARE GOING TO RAZZ SHRIMP. AT YESTERDAYS CONFERENCE, VAN SUGGESTED THAT SHRIMP BE TOLD EAGLEBEAK SPRUDER WAS GOING TO PUNCH HIM IN THE NOSE, BUT OOFTY SAID SHRIMP WOULDNT BELIEVE IT BECAUSE IT IS TOO NEAR BASEBALL SEASON AND EAGLEBEAK WOULD BE AFRAID OF HURTING HIS KNUCKLES.
OH WELL MAYBE WE'LL GET A IDEA TO-DAY!
SURE!
I HAVE IT! — I HAVE IT! — I'LL GIVE A PARTY AND YOU'LL TELL SHRIMP HE CANNOT COME!
AND THEN, OF COURSE, AT THE LAST MINUTE, WE'LL INVITE HIM MARVELOUS!
HUH?

Congressman Frisby Angered by Carping

Cassaway Doakes, head of local "Cheer Up Our Congressman" Committee, which will pass resolutions to cheer up Mr. Frisby.

WASHINGTON—To quiet public indignation because Congress "does nothing" this session, Representative Frisby has decided to organize spelling bees in both the House and Senate.

"Nobody," says Frisby, in a sizzling 40,000-word statement, "can call me a Do-Nothing.

"I am tired of all this carping.

"If anyone thinks Congressman Frisby sits idle, he or she does not know what he is talking about. Rats!

"Why, only yesterday I worked all day mimeographing 'Songs Old and New' for the restaurant in the House basement.

"I am busy as I can be making plans. We are going to have rousing songs at noontime and no end of wholesome activity."

Your type is righter, I confess,
Than my typewriter can express;
That you are cute,
That you are sweet,
Is absolutely absolete.
But you are sweet, and you are cute—
That's obsoletely absolute!

Announcement that women jockeys will ride a race at Tia Juana prompted a young man in Rio Piedras, Porto Rico, to write as follows to Harry Pollok, track representative—

Dear Sirs—

You would like to bring to me a fhoto of these precty ladies american dressed of Jockeys in one of his strong ponie.

I would like to have any one of these american ladies Jockeys.

All the sunday of the week here race in Quintana Hipodromo. All these things like me very much.

Bring me these fhoto inmediately I put in a picture cover with glass in my house.

I know that you are not going to call me for a penny of the picture.

Like those picture that the star of the movies send without a penny.

If you want something to call for me for something I am at your service.

Sincerely yours,
Alfredo Rodrigues.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Sir—

I was called upon to make a speech at a public gathering. In order to stress on my subject, I covered my eyes with my hand and deliberated and said: "I will now pause and ask myself a question." Imagine my embarrassment when someone shouted, "You'll sure get a foolish answer."

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

"WHY not give us a few vamping lessons for the men?" inquires a flapper. "As lovers and charmers, they leave a lot to be desired."

* * *

Alas, how true! The modern Man's "technique" might have been acquired in the jungle or at a prize fight, for all the subtlety or grace or skill he sometimes displays.

* * *

And yet, almost ANY man could be a riot with the women, if he chose to take the trouble. There are at least 77 guaranteed ways to charm a woman.

The simplest and quickest method is by making love to her convincingly. By making her think that you find her adorable, desirable, irresistible.

No woman's heart can fail to hold a soft spot for a man who loves her and has the courage to say it with WORDS. There are hundreds of clever "lines" going around these days; but the most effective line ever sun or published is "I love you." Even when she knows it isn't so, she thrills to hear it.

* * *

You can charm a woman by flattering her. For, while flattery may frighten a man, no WOMAN can ever forget a man who has told her that she has gorgeous eyes or a beautiful shoulder or cute little ears. It sinks in.

* * *

You don't need to wrack your brains for new or original pharses. The same old stock forms will do. Just say it with words of one-syllable—and her imagination will do the rest. You CAN'T overdo it.

You can charm almost any woman by listening to her.

* * *

It is such a novelty to a woman to be actually LISTENED to, these days—to have a man hear her through, without interrupting to spring some brilliant idea or scintillating bon mot of his own—that she is filled with gratitude and admiration, almost akin to love.

* * *

And you can charm a woman, just by thinking of her; by remembering her preference, her favorite flower or the color of her eyes. Any "thought" on the part of a man is a delightful surprise to a girl.

* * *

You can charm her by doing the chivalrous; by the "protecting," devoted, "I'll-take-care-of-you" manner. Every woman loves that. She can come right out of the "gym" after her boxing lesson and fall in love with the first man who helps her off a street car, or gently pulls her from in front of a taxicab. Oh, there are a hundred ways of vamping a woman. It's SO easy.

* * *

But, you can never charm a woman by posing for her, or playing to the gallery, or monopolizing the conversation or doing the "caveman," or by talking all the laughs and the curtain-calls.

Because a woman is like a man in this: She loves the person who "STARS HER." Not the one who tries to dazzle her.

Eat Everything without Fear of Indigestion

Are there lots of foods you can't eat—for fear of gas, bloating, pains in the stomach and bowels?

Do you have to pass up favorite dishes—while the rest enjoy them?

That's a sign you need Tanlac! For more than 10 years Tanlac has restored to vigorous health thousands who denied themselves their favorite foods just as you have to.

Mr. William Martell, of 15 Harriet St., Pawtucket, R. I., says: "My digestion was so poor that I had to live on toast and eggs for six months. Tanlac made a continuous improvement and I've gained 22 lbs."

If you suffer from indigestion, gas, dizziness, headaches, constipation or torpid liver—give Tanlac a chance to help you! The first bottle often brings the needed relief.

Tanlac is a good, pure medicine, made of roots, barks, and herbs that are recognized by the United States Pharmacopoeia. Get it from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

ASPIRIN

All sorts of headaches usually yield to a Bayer Aspirin tablet. But don't let the acquaintance end there! Aspirin offers the same welcome relief from neuritis and neuralgia, and even rheumatic pains. To break up a cold, or end a toothache; for children, as well as adults, nothing seems quite so effective—and so harmless—as Aspirin. But the box must say Bayer; the name must be on every tablet, too, to be genuine Bayer Aspirin. Remember that! All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

RADIO DIALOG

A feature in tonight's White Rock Concert to be heard from New York through WBZ at 8:30 is the introduction of the cembalon as a solo instrument for the radio. This Biblical harp-like affair is played by means of various hammers of cotton wool, leather, ivory, metal and quill. The virtuoso is Ladislaus Kun. A string group from the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will also be heard in a serious program.

VANEVA MILNE, dramatic soprano, will be heard from WLOE in a program of songs commencing at 8:15. The numbers will be largely old favorites and Scotch ballads. Among the latter is a group arranged by Helen Hopekirk of Brookline.

In case you haven't heard "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," for 24 hours past, tune in during the Cities Service Hour, starting at 8 p. m. this evening, as the announcers say. It will be sung by the quartet of Cavaliers. And then, if you like that sort of thing you might just as well stick with them for the next dozen numbers until they reach "Dear Old Pal of Mine," prepared as "a distinctive radio arrangement."

A THRILLING tale of the sea was told to WBZ listeners during last night's "House o' Dreams" broadcast by Thomas Eadie, U. S. navy diver. Eadie described his work during the salvage of the S4 off Provincetown. His daring rescue of Diver Michaels, whose lines had become entangled, won for Eadie the Congressional Medal of Honor. Eadie's brief talk did more to restore public esteem for the navy than could reams of official reports in the disaster.

Maj. Andrew White, veteran sports announcer, will rebroadcast his impression of the much-discussed seventh round of the Dempsey-Tunney battle through WOR-WNAC during the La Palina Smoker tonight. Whether White asserts that Tunney should have been counted out or not, the result of the fight will never be fully agreed upon by the fans.

WSAI, operated by the United States Playing Card Company of Cincinnati will allow no direct advertising in broadcasts from that station in the future. Announcements will be confined to matters of public interest and importance, or to good-will announcements for the sponsors of programs. There will be no mention of prices or other advertising, whose only place is on the printed page of the magazine or newspaper, Manager Harry A. Mount states.

The matter of good will advertising is one of the troublesome problems of the advertising craft. For years it has been condemned, yet some of the most successful manufacturers in the United States have depended almost entirely upon this type of publicity, while the most technically perfect "Reason why" campaigns have frequently failed disastrously. Good will advertising has gradually come to be almost eliminated, however, in the printed page. It is holding its own in the radio, but there is a strongly perceptible encroachment of the specific type of announcement and program copy.

IT is certain that thousands of listeners leave their radio sets tuned in for musical programs, merely for a soporific background to their reading or idle household chatter. The moment a speech comes on the air the dials are switched to music, no matter what. Little attention is given to the sponsoring advertiser. On the other hand, there are other thousands, perhaps fewer than the first group, who detest the interminable grinding out of jazz and the equally distasteful and incomprehensible classical type of music, but who wax excited over sport broadcasts, political speeches, news bulletins, weather reports and Chamber of Commerce addresses.

Most station directors are learning that it is necessary to visualize audiences by groups, and to cater to each group as thoroughly and as skillfully as possible. The day when every program was supposed to please every listener has gone by, and the program director now tries to find the best performer or group of entertainers in each particular field which his broadcasting repertoire covers.

INGENIOUS minds have discovered ways of making a radio program a means of direct advertising and have succeeded at the same time in keeping their programs entertaining. The early opera broadcasts were simply an adaptation of the old merchandising idea of giving away samples. The result has been tremendously increased audiences. Thos. Cook & Sons give extremely interesting travel talks each Sunday and no doubt profit accordingly with added clients. The newspapers are doing direct advertising with news bulletins and weather reports. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. is attempting to prolong the life of its policy-holders by means of morning exercises. The Playing Card people know that people must buy their cards in order to play bridge and to follow the radio bridge game. Victor and Ampico give away samples of their product on the air each week. Even the Kingdom of Heaven has a direct tie-in, as the listener is, to all intents and purposes, in church when he is giving his attention to a radio sermon.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

What Do Prisoners Make?

Shoes, Mostly

The Cooper-Hawes bill, which has just been reported favorably at Washington by the House Committee on Labor, if enacted into law would put an end to the sale in Massachusetts of goods made in other States by convict labor.

The progress of this bill will be watched by New England with undisguised interest.

Those who appeared in opposition at the committee hearings were mainly prison officials, in some cases accompanied by the law officers of their States.

To each of the wardens Representative William P. Connery of Lynn addressed the same question:

"Warden, what are the chief products of your prison labor?"

Almost invariably, Mr. Connery says, the answer was "shoes, textiles or leather goods."

In favor of the bill were the American Federation of Labor, certain manufacturers—employers of free labor—and the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

All had the same ultimate object, the continued employment of convicts for the benefit of the State, for their own welfare and rehabilitation and for the care of their families—and the removal of the product of such labor from ruinous competition with free labor and invested capital.

The Cooper-Hawes bill was drawn to meet such a situation as exists in Massachusetts, where the Supreme Judicial Court has held a State law prohibiting the importation of goods made in the prisons of other States to be an attempt at STATE regulation of INTERSTATE commerce, and so in violation of the Constitution.

Under the provisions of the pending bill prison-made goods will be "divested" of their INTERSTATE character upon their arrival in the State of their destination and the laws of that State will become operative with respect to their sale and distribution.

All of which will be of particular interest to cities like Lewiston, Me., where shirt manufacturers discovered last November that their own State had entered into competition with them by disposing of the labor of its prisoners by contract to shirt makers of another State.

But Charles I Did ONE Good Thing

THE EARRING

This Pearle was taken out of ye King my grandfathers ear after he was beheaded & given ye Princesse Royall.

CHARLES WITH HIS PEARL EARRING

This picture of Charles the First of England, whose head was chopped off by Cromwell, the Puritan, without ceremony, is from a portrait by the great painter, Van Dyck. You have often seen it, but perhaps you have not noticed, close to the hair and beard, under the left ear, a large pearl earring. When the King mounted the scaffold, with perfect courage and composure, he wore this earring. It was bitter cold, and the upper part of his body was clad only in a silk shirt. He was afraid he might tremble from cold and that the people would think him afraid. As he went up to the scaffold he thanked a man for giving him a hand, saying he could attend to coming down without assistance. When he came down, poor man, his head was separated from his body.

The little picture shows the pearl, and under it the inscription written by Queen Mary, granddaughter of Charles the First and wife of William the Third. The earring and the inscription now belong to the Duke of Portland.

Much sympathy has been poured out on Charles the First—more than he deserved. When a man is king and doesn't play the part he must expect somebody to come along, as Cromwell did, and play the part for him.

But Charles had various good personal qualities. And he did one useful thing for science. He encouraged Dr. Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, thus putting the practice of medicine on a new footing.

Until he came, doctors, seeing the blood spurt, for thousands of years, and feeling the heart beat, never, most extraordinarily, realized that the blood was moving under pressure, since it spurted.

Doctors used to "bleed" their patients, often attributing many illnesses to excess blood. They would bleed on one side one day and bleed on the other side the next day, "to keep the amount of blood evenly balanced, on both sides of

TIME IS WASTED BY USELESS TALKING

By DR. FRANK CRANE

GRENVILLE KLEISER, well-known author and writer, gives some good advice about talking.

An immense amount of time and energy is constantly wasted, he says, by useless talking.

Some of the essentials that he mentions for a good conversationalist are as follows:

The first condition of good talking is clear, well-ordered thinking. If your thoughts are in confusion your speech is liable to be non-effective.

Talking should not be a verbal or vocal contest, but a mutual exchange of ideas. Monologues are tiresome.

Don't give advice. Advice costs nothing and is usually worth what it costs.

Don't exaggerate. It is easy to let your desires and feelings overcolor your views. Give the impression of understatement rather than over-statement and what you say will have more effect.

Keep your voice low. A low voice is not only an excellent thing in a woman, as Shakespeare says, but it is good for anybody. Many people are trying to talk to, because they constantly bawl so loud. They drown out their opponent with sound.

Don't tell unduly long stories. Don't make a reputation for being a "funny" man. This will put you in the class of lightweights. Stories are like seasoning or salt. They should be very judicially intermingled and it is easy to get too many of them.

Do not interrupt another. Wait quietly for your turn to speak.

Don't relate lengthy personal experiences. A thing may be interesting to you because it is about yourself, but it is usually boresome to other people. Don't be impatient. When you observe that your listener does not wish to be convinced change the subject.

Don't argue. Argument never convinced anybody. Suggest.

Sedulously avoid controversial debate about religion or politics. People have made up their minds about these questions beforehand and do not welcome your attempt to change their opinions.

Be careful about ridicule. People who are not sensitive about anything else are very quick to resent this.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THELMA has been around telling me what a Rare Soul she has and how it isn't appreciated. Thelma says she should have been an artist, probably our greatest artist. Because she loves beauty—and how! But somehow or someone has always interfered. Mostly Common Saps like you and me, with our crude standards and coarse habits. So her life has been entirely thwarted.

Thelma's story is no news to me. I hear it at least a dozen times a day. The woods are filled with Thwarted Thelmas, both male and female. With their rare, rare souls going to seed for lack of appreciation. And while the following advice won't do them a bit of good it will be a big relief to me—so here goes.

In the first place, if you have a Rare Soul it isn't necessary to announce it. A Rare Soul is as obvious as an onion.

An onion never needs to annouce itself. Nor does it waste any time worrying over its own potencies or poignancies. IT JUST GOES ON ONIONING ALONG, DOING THE JOB IT WAS GIVEN TO DO TO THE BEST OF ITS ABILITY, LETTING ITS DEEDS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES. That's why onions are about our most successful vegetable. You rarely if ever meet a defeated onion. Yet no article of creation makes less fuss about attainments.

Not so with humans.

The very first thing a certain type of human does when he discovers that he has a soul is to begin to analyze and announce. This is especially true in these self-conscious days when everyone is supposed to be Different, and De Luxe. Our first act, after we've washed our teeth in the morning, is to psychoanalyze ourselves and find out what's happened to our souls overnight.

Now the prosaic fact is this—there's nothing remarkable about having a soul. Souls are as common as toe nails and should, I protest, be treated with equal reticence. Nor is there any great variation in the functioning of souls. All souls are sensitive. All souls are easily riled. No soul was ever understood. These things are as true of the milkman's soul as of the millionaire's. The mere fact that you have a soul and that it squirms, proves nothing—nothing at all.

The only way to grow a soul that is truly great and different is to forget about it, jump on your job and give your soul a chance.

You can't keep digging up your spirit and displaying it and expect it to thrive, any more than you could keep digging up an onion and expect any results at harvest time.

ELSIE ROBINSON
CUT OUT THE CONVERSATION AND LEARN TO BE AN ONION.
3-23

Moreover, if your spirit doesn't thrive, it is needless to blame the fact on anyone else. IT'S YOUR FAULT AND YOURS ALONE. ANY SOUL CAN BE GREAT, REGARDLESS OF CIRCUMSTANCES, IF THE OWNER OF THAT SOUL REALLY DESIRES GREATNESS AND WILL PAY THE PRICE FOR IT. Some of the greatest souls the race has ever known have been housed in crippled bodies and handicapped by poverty, obscurity and pain.

So I'm hereby announcing to all rare souls who aren't getting the stuff across—CUT OUT THE CONVERSATION, KID, AND LEARN TO BE AN ONION.

A New Yorker's Europe

by O. O. McINTYRE

LONDON, March 23—The "Brighter London" movement peeps through the gloom here and there. Regent street—the Fifth avenue—seems entirely made over in the American fashion with a spanking newness. What you wish for in London is not so much brightness but that people would thaw out and be themselves. It would be a lovely spot for a "Smile Week."

Everywhere you sense the accentuated sniff of those who have the "advawntage." The condescending drawl soon begins to wear on the nerves and when you hear expatriated Americans simulating this odious kid-glove snobbishness it is, well, putting it on a bit thick.

This morning I watched the early procession over London bridge—a constant stream of workers going to their tasks and chattering in Cockney dialect that is almost alien. An outstanding impression was the need of dentistry among them. Everybody seemed to have a few front teeth missing or broken off.

London has thousands of those beefy, graying gentlemen whose cheeks have a reddish ale house glow. They dress with a shabby gentility, often wearing spats below patched trousers. They have over-Niagara mustaches, clear their throats with a hearty gar-rumph and blow their noses lustily in thumb-stop fashion.

They remind you somehow of those ruddy-cheeked pictures of John Bull in whiskey ads. To all appearances they have no particular calling and certainly no incomes, but they get along jolly well in their blustery way and add, I presume, a touch to the gaiety of nations.

The most appealing thing about the British to me is their love of outdoors and zest for sport. They take avid interest in every game played in the open. London has 114 publications devoted chiefly to sports and all have a surprising circulation.

THE Times in listing arrivals at hotels and their occupations lists me as "a leader-writer of the American press." Sounds well, but what in the world is it?

AND in a shop a clerk lapsing playful for the second—and it was just a second—apologized with: "I was giving your leg a jolly pull." He meant, I found out afterward, he was just joking.

THE Kit Kat Club and the Florida are the most popular night resorts. But our revenue men are no more zealous than city authorities here against closing orders. After 12:30 at night even glasses are removed from table and a drink is impossible to secure. The orchestras play this season's hits from New York shows and dance steps differ little from those on Broadway. The clubs, as in Paris are supported chiefly by loose spending Americans.

THE discontented of London are still permitted to mount platforms at an entrance to Hyde Park and "blow off steam." Policemen are about, but only interfere in case of incipient riots and such. The speaker pays so much for his platform and he can say anything he chooses so long as he does not indulge in profanity. He can harangue the Crown, sneer at the Prince of Wales and even suggest a march on Buckingham Palace. Free speech is unbridled. The ruling class has the good sense to know it is all talk and harmless.

LONDON'S poverty often hides in the alleylike mews back of the finest mansions. Originally stables, they are now hovels of human habitation as dank and smelly as the causeways of Limehouse.

LONDON streets seem more romantically named than those in most cities. Some of them seem fairly to leap at you. Today, for instance, I passed through Threadneedle, Houndsditch, Cockspur, Oxford Circus, Cheese Corners, Boar's Head Lane, Old New Street, Mustard Alley, Blood Road and Singapore Mews.

THEN there is Rotten Row, where all the swells canter on horseback toting monocles and lorgnettes.

A FRIEND called up America and with the tricky telephone service here I wondered what he would do if the voice at the other end replied: "Wrong country."

the body," as though they were taking juice from an orange.

Shakespeare, ahead of Dr. Harvey, seems to have realized that the blood circulates, since he speaks of the "ruddy drops that visit this sad heart." Unless they came and went they couldn't VISIT the heart.

Genius sometimes sees truth ahead of science. Dante, many years before Newton, felt dimly the law of gravitation. He shows Dante and Virgil climbing down the back of Satan holding on to the stiff red hairs, then climbing away from the earth's center and out onto the other side of the earth. Dante speaks of the center of the earth, "toward which all things tend."

Young gentlemen, and old ones, too, especially in England, are still given to wearing bracelets. The EARRINGS for men has gone out of fashion.
